Wounded by Arrows

Priests Play Dead In Midst of Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Two Quebec priests wounded by terrorists using bows and arrows said Monday they played dead for more than two hours with rebels swarming all around them during an attack on their Kwilu Province mission Saturday.

The two priests were Rev. Raymond Bussiere, 25, of Drummondville, and Rev. Guy Jean Bruneau, 41, of Magog. Their mission was overrun by hordes who killed two Belgians.

BLEEDING HEAVILY
"We were both bleeding heavily and were very weak," Father Bussiere said. "There we lay on the floor for more than two hours, while the rebels were swarming around us."

"One of the Belgian Jesuit brothers had escaped to the rectory, too, and was hiding behind our cinema screen. They never found him. We did not know how long we had to stay there and we did not dare bandage our wounds, for rebels were all around."

HEARD CONFESSION
"The Jesuit father there heard our whispered confession and gave us absolution while the terrorists were looting and screaming around us." Father Bussiere suffered a deep arrow wound in his left arm. Father Bruneau was wounded in an arm and hand.

They and 15 other Canadian and Belgian priests and teachers were flown out of the terror-stricken province Sunday after Canadian Brig. Jacques Alfred Dextraze of Montreal, buzzed the mission with his helicopter and scared away about 80 rebels.

TEACHERS KILLED
Father Bussiere said he tried to flee when a group of rebels forced several of the missionaries to kneel in their staling building. One of the rebels shot and killed Belgian teacher Robert Marchal, 24.

"They did not give any warning, just killed him like that," he said. Another witness said the rebels used a "pou pou," a home-made missile-loading rifle stuffed with lead and nails.

Trenton, New Jersey, Mayor Arthur Holland chats with neighborhood children yesterday in front of his new home in old, racially mixed section of town. Holland, his wife and 10-month-old daughter are scheduled to move in Friday. He bought house for $7,000 and spent another $10,000 fixing it up. —(AP Photofax)

Negro Neighborhood

Mayor Will Ignore What People Think

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Mayor Arthur Holland said Monday he has bought a house in a rundown Negro neighborhood and will move in Friday. He said the only thing that worries him is that people will think he is a crackpot.

"You know the reaction of some people," he explained. "The average person thinks he's nuts" or that he likes the Negro or Puerto Rican better than us."

"Or they say he will move in for awhile, just long enough to keep his promise, and then he will move out again" or "He's going to do it for speculation and if it catches on he will make a lot of money out of it."

But Holland, the first mayor under this state capital city's mayor-city council form of government, said the reason he and his pretty wife purchased their new home was because they wanted something that would lend itself to early American remodeling.

Then, too, he said, he believes that it may set an example for other people and attract whites back to the neighborhood.

No Firing Of Seamen

MONTREAL (UPI) — Canada's board of maritime trustees Monday issued an order making it unlawful for anyone but themselves to fire any of the 14,000 seamen under their jurisdiction. Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Labor Minister McEachern warned Great Lakes shipowners to cooperate with the trustees.

WHERE'S HEATHMAN?

By TERRY HAMMOND

Confessed child-slayer Charles Heathman has broken parole and vanished.

Provincial officials confirmed his disappearance yesterday and said a continent-wide police alert has been sounded.

Heathman, twice sentenced to the gallows for the 1962 sex-slaying of Vernon newboy Donald Otley and later freed by the B.C. Court of Appeal, dropped out of sight early last Wednesday.

He had been staying with a sponsor to which he had been paroled from Essondale Mental Hospital.

Authorities said yesterday the sponsor immediately notified them and that a "search and locate" order went out to RCMP.

U.S. POLICE NOTIFIED
U.S. police, probably the FBI, were brought in on the theory he might be headed for the border.

An official yesterday thought he might have headed for Nevada, where he had a lengthy criminal record before coming to B.C.

LESS THAN A MONTH
His disappearance from the Lower Mainland home of his sponsor came less than a month after he was paroled.

Authorities said yesterday that breaking a Mental Hospital Act parole is not a crime.

Were police under orders to arrest him if they discovered his whereabouts?

Develop or Get Out Edict Urged for Firm

By TERRY HAMMOND

The B.C. government was told yesterday it should deliver an ultimatum to the Tahsis Company — develop its Vancouver Island tree farm licence properly or lose it.

John Squire (NDP — Alberni) told the legislature that the firm, a subsidiary of the East Asiatic Company, is not living up to its development commitments, that it is wasteful, that it is running "company towns" and thwarting community development.

He said the company was granted a tree farm licence covering part of Central Vancouver Island and the West Coast on the basis of an announcement that it would build a pulp mill somewhere between Metchosin and Zeballos. In the past seven or eight years the company had made further pulp mill announcements, but nothing ever came of them.

"They used this in seeking public support," Mr. Squire said. People touring the company's operations had been "appalled at what was left on the forest floor."

The proposed pulp mill and other company installations were to have benefited the area of the tree farm licence both industrially and socially, the Alberni member said.

SOCIAL BENEFITS
But not all of the industrial benefits and none of the social benefits had materialized.

"Only the sawmill has improved and the logging extended," said Mr. Squire.

"Full harvest is not being made in the woods operations." He claimed 2,500 people in the tree farm licence area were without access to public highways and that the 1,500 residents of the community of Tahsis couldn't even buy land or their own homes.

"Not one person owns anything but the furniture in their own homes—it's a darn poor deal."

Quebec Threat

'Queen Faces Danger'

TORONTO (CP) — Queen Elizabeth's life will be endangered if she visits Quebec this fall as planned, separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput said here Monday night.

The former leader of the Quebec Republican Party told 200 members of the Young Men's Canadian Club that violence was a probability.

"Some of my own people are ready to let her know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

He said French Canada would regard the visit as a provocation.

From Dead Man

Hand for Sailor

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Boston surgeons said last night a 28-year-old Ecuadorian sailor who was given the forearm and hand of a dead man after his own hand was blown off by a grenade is doing "excellently."

Dr. Richard Wilson and Dr. Robert Goldwyn, reporting on the sailor's condition 10 days after the historic operation in Guayaquil, Ecuador, said his new hand is "completely viable."

Dr. Wilson and Dr. Goldwyn, both associate surgeons at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, flew to Guayaquil last week to advise on post-operative care for the patient. They returned to Boston Sunday.

The transplant of a human limb, called a homograft, was believed to be the first in medical history. The nine-hour operation was performed by Dr. Roberto Gilbert, a noted bone specialist.

The sailor was Julio Luna of the Ecuadorian navy. His hand and wrist were amputated shortly after the 11 a.m. accident.

At 4 p.m. Gilbert found a donor, a 38-year-old civilian who had died of a massive intestinal hemorrhage at another hospital.

The dead man's hand and forearm were amputated, placed on ice and rushed across the city. At 9 p.m. Dr. Gilbert and a team of specialists began the operation, which lasted until 6 a.m. the next day.

Rescue Tries Heroic

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — U.S. Coast Guardsmen jumped time and again into the stormy Atlantic to rescue crewmen of a sinking British freighter. It was disclosed yesterday with the arrival of 11 survivors of the vessel.

Mr. K Sees End to War

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has declared that "for the first time in history mankind is in a position to prevent war altogether," usually reliable sources reported here Monday.

Woman Chosen Third Juror

DALLAS (AP) — Lawyers approved a working mother of six children Monday as the third juror in the Jack Ruby murder trial. The Texas Supreme Court, meanwhile in effect upheld the trial court's ruling that persons who saw the slaying on television remain eligible as jurors.

The defence contends that such television viewers are witnesses and thus are ineligible to serve on Ruby's jury.

The nine-member supreme court refused to hear a defence petition asking it to order District Judge Joe B. Brown to disqualify as jurors persons who saw the slaying on TV.

APPEALED TO COURT
The defence flew a lawyer to Austin Monday to make the plea before the state supreme court.

The third juror chosen and the first woman was Mrs. Mildred McCollum, 40, a secretary and wife of a machinist. She could have claimed exemption from jury duty because of her children.

However, she did not claim

Ahousesat:

One House in 30 Years

Alberni MLA John Squire told the legislature yesterday the most appalling living conditions he has ever seen exist at the Indian village of Ahousat off Vancouver Island's west coast. He demanded the government institute a pilot program for the Indians there similar to steps taken in recent years in Manitoba.

At the Ahousat village only six individuals are gainfully employed out of a population of 680 people, he charged.

There is no adequate means of communication with Vancouver Island points and, in spite of a rapidly growing population, there has only been one new home built there in the past 30 years.

Conditions in the homes are so bad that children attending school aren't allowed to take books home or study for fear they will be destroyed.

The island on which the village is located is dominated by a tree farm licence but there is no cutting program to provide employment.

Mr. Squire charged B.C. "is 10 miles and 100 years" behind the rest of Canada in caring for its Indian population.

"When it comes to biculturalism..."

NDP Has Principles —B.C. Not 'Plagued'

Brotherhood Week spilled over into part of an extra day in the legislature Monday but finally exploded into a shouting match between Premier Bennett and Opposition Leader Strachan.

Mr. Strachan sparked the fracas when he said the people of B.C. had been "plagued" with the present government.

Mr. Bennett jumped up and objected.

He said the opposition had been roundly trounced by his party at the polls and that Mr. Strachan's choice of language showed he had no respect for the democratic system at all. The NDP had "no policies and no principles" shouted the premier. Mr. Strachan should withdraw.

Then in came Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) demanding that the premier withdraw.

"We don't have to take that from you," he cried.

Mr. Bennett said he had no intention of withdrawing.

Mr. Strachan jumped up waving his hand and the premier said "Don't threaten."

HAPPY ENDING

"All right," make it a happy ending," said Mr. Strachan.

"I withdraw," chirped Premier Bennett.

The exchange was sparked by a FCE construction bill which nobody in the House objects to. Debate on it was adjourned.

Mr. Strachan later took the government to task for "bungling incompetence" on the B.C. Electric takeover, then voted with the government on a bill authorizing payment for the company's shares.

The legislature unanimously approved expenditure of $197,114.358 for acquisition of the common shares of the B.C.E., including $25,000,000 involved in the out-of-court settlement.

FACE OF DEMOCRACY

Mr. Strachan said the government was making "a farce out of democracy" by asking authority for the expenditure, when the money has already been paid.

He also asked Attorney-General Bonner how much money was involved in litigation proceedings in the courts.

"Ask the question on the order paper and I will give you the exact amount," replied Mr. Bonner.

"There will be a question on the order paper," said the Opposition Leader.

Homes Appalling

tourism, maybe we should start at home," he told the House.

If members were familiar with the Indian settlement straddling the Trans-Canada Highway near Duncan, they should regard it as a palace compared with Ahousat.

"In all my life I have never seen such deplorable conditions," he said.

If the government would undertake a complete survey of the Ahousat area and make use of job opportunities there, the unemployment could be reduced to nothing in two years.

He suggested the tree farm licence company be compelled to start cutting near Ahousat, the Forest Service seek openings for natives, Indians be employed as deckhands on RCMP patrol boats, the highways department hire more Indians and give them training and the provincial government encourage Indian girls to join its secretarial staff.

Too often, he said, when he seeks provincial aid for Indians he is told it is all a federal government affair.

He agreed with an Indian chief who greeted word of a provincial grant to preserve totems with the remark, "Never mind preserving the totems. Preserve the Indians."

The government can't talk about "human betterment," said Mr. Squire, unless it includes everyone in the province.

The provincial government has got to take the lead, as other provinces have done, in working towards the rehabilitation of our native Indian people.

Education and improved job opportunities were the only answer, he said.

Of 47,000 Indian children in Canadian educational systems only 3,300 are in high school and only 80 have Grade 13 or are in university.

Your Good Health

Growing Not Cause Of Childhood Pains

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard people mention "growing pains" all my life and now I have two grandsons who complain of foot and leg pains at times.

The dictionary defines growing pains as "transitory pains during growth," but I would like your comments.—D.G.M.

The term "growing pains" seems, unfortunately, to have become part of the language. I wish we could get rid of it, though.

Growing does NOT hurt. Calling such incidental childhood pains "growing pains" is just ducking the issue. We can't blame growth. It has to be something else.

Active youngsters sometimes get such pains—muscle spasms—as a rule—just because they have been too active and have become overtired.

When you have a youngster who is constantly on the go, and has this trouble usually the best solution is to gradually guide him into the habit of resting and relaxing for an hour or so in the afternoon. I'm all for plenty of exercise for youngsters, but they need some relaxation, too.

Where activity does not seem to account for pains in legs or feet, then it's time to look for some deeper cause. By far the most likely is some defect in the arch or elsewhere in the foot.

Incorrectly fitted shoes, of course, can also force the child into a faulty gait or posture.

Corrective shoes, arch supports or other measures often are used in such cases. (If there is pain in the groin and in the joints as well as in the muscles, then be on the alert for something serious. I have rheumatic fever in mind.)

Dear Dr. Molner: My son has purchased a house where the former owner died of cancer. Now he is upset because someone told him that this terrible disease is catching. He is afraid that the germs still exist in the house.—MRS. B.R.

But cancer isn't caused by germs! The "someone" got things all mixed up. Cancer is not contagious.

Heathman Object Of Wide Search

"Not so far," said one official.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said he felt the public should know that Heathman's extensive previous criminal record was devoid of sex crimes.

DENIED CONFESSION

Following his acquittal on the murder charge, he made a confession to a Vancouver newspaper, confirmed once that it was a true confession and later repudiated it.

Twenty months ago he was committed to Escondido by a court order based on medical opinion that he was dangerous.

About a month ago came word that a review board had judged him sane and that a conditional release was imminent.

Subsequently he was released to a sponsor on condition he report at specific intervals to mental health authorities.

CONDITIONS BROKEN

Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday the conditions of parole have been broken.

He thought Heathman would be recommended to Escondido when he is found (if B.C. has jurisdiction there) but he didn't know what would happen if he was returned and still found to be sane.

Section 26 of the Mental Hospitals Act says that where a patient on temporary discharge breaks parole within six months, and is found to be unsafe to have at large, he can be recommitted.

But nothing in the act says what happens if he breaks parole but is found sane.

Mr. Martin said he has been concerned all along about Heathman's release.

CAN'T HOLD HIM

"But when psychiatrists at Escondido say he is mentally well, we can't hold him," he added.

Under the terms of Heathman's parole he was free to come and go in B.C. so long as he reported regularly, the minister said.

He was doubtful that Heathman could be brought back to B.C. if he is located outside the province.

Representatives of unions and management are to meet with B.C. government chief conciliation officer Reg Clements in Vancouver Wednesday in the strike by more than 2,000 shipyard workers against Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrow's, Victoria, and Burrard Dry Dock, North Vancouver.

Union members have previously been critical of management for using a management research firm to represent the companies in contract talks.

Members of management, on the other hand, have expressed similar complaints, saying that the negotiating team for the unions seems to lack the authority to make decisions on behalf of the 22 unions involved in the strike.

Cubans Want Base Back

By JULIAN RATES

HAVANA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro says that while Cuba wants Guantanamo naval base back from the United States some day "it is not an urgent question to make us feel impatient in any way."

But he added in an interview that before there could be any improvement in the U.S.-Cuban situation, Washington would have to end what he called "subversive activities in Cuba and the training of counter-revolutionary elements."

Other points made by the 37-year-old premier in the 6 1/2-hour interview with Reuters:

The Sino-Soviet ideological split: "It is the preoccupation of all Marxist parties. . . . We do not know what will be the results of these efforts (to resolve the differences) but the worst of all would be for us to feel 'pessimistic'."

Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos' suggestion that U.S.-Cuban differences be considered in the United Nations: "I think it is just. The spirit of the declaration is good, the intention is good."

Cuba's 1964 sugar crop: He would not give an estimate, but emphasized that Cuba will fulfill its international sugar commitments this year. He predicted a sugar crop of 10,000,000 tons by 1970.

Trade with non-Communist

countries in light of the recent British buses deal and agreements with France, Spain and Japan: "Now Cuba can offer magnificent trading conditions to any country and at the same time buy from them."

U.S. suspension of military aid to some countries trading with Cuba: "I could not conceive of anything more absurd."

President Johnson's policy toward Cuba: "We are very carefully watching the steps being taken."

Relations with Latin America: Castro said Cuba is ready to establish relations with any government in Latin America willing to do so, and added that all Latin American nations have common interests and problems.

Asked whether Cuba would insist on a change in the status of the U.S.-leased Guantanamo naval base before discussing ways to improve the situation with the U.S., Castro said:

POSITION WEAK
"The U.S. government would have to desire such discussions. I don't think it would be practical to establish any preconditions such as the case of Guantanamo Bay. In our opinion the United States is occupying the base by virtue of a treaty imposed by force. Legally the position of the United States is very weak."

"So long as that base is not used to carry out aggression against Cuba, it is not fundamental for the revolution if it takes years, more or less, to return it to Cuba."

"It is the declared policy of the Cuban government never to use military force to try to recover it. We shall always go through diplomatic means and international organs."

Castro said that before there could be any general improvement in the U.S.-Cuban situation "there has to be suspension of subversive activities in Cuba."

India Claims

Patrol Wiped Out By Pakistani

NEW DELHI (AP) — India claimed Monday that Pakistani irregulars crossed the cease-fire line in disputed Kashmir and attacked a 25-man Indian police patrol. It said all but two of the Indians were either killed or captured.

In Pakistan the official government radio said Pakistani forces, acting in self-defence, fired upon an Indian patrol that entered the Pakistani section of Kashmir. It made no mention of casualties.

India filed a complaint with United Nations military observers along the cease-fire line and they set out for an investigation. The clash, latest in the 16-Chen-

Russian Buildings Seized by Albania

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government Monday disclosed that Albania has seized five Soviet embassy buildings in Tirana, capital of the tiny Balkan Communist state which is allied with Communist China in the political and ideological dispute with Moscow.

The newspaper Izvestia said Moscow had protested the "hostile acts" and demanded their immediate return.

In London, authoritative sources said that Albania seized at least two Soviet submarines and a quantity of weapons shortly after relations between Russia and Albania were broken off two years ago. The submarines were based at the Adriatic port of Valona.

The buildings had been in the hands of three Soviet caretakers since the 1961 suspension of diplomatic relations over Premier Khrushchev's de-Stalinization program.

The seizure of the buildings following Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai's visit to Albania last month led diplomatic observers here to suspect Peking's hand in the action.

Reds Quash Easter Pass Bid

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany Monday flatly rejected West Berlin's terms for Easter passes through the anti-refugee wall.

Neues Deutschland, the official newspaper of the East German Communist Party, said West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt was mistaken if he thought his proposal would be accepted.

Brandt's proposal provides for the issuance of passes at the wall as West Berliners go through to visit relatives and opposes the stationing of East German postal workers in West Berlin to process pass applications—a plan used during the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defence Secretary McNamara will go to Saigon probably within 10 days to review the South Viet Nam war, but officials said his trip does not mean the U.S. is about to extend the conflict into the Communist north.

White House officials characterized McNamara's mission as one of a series of inspection trips he has made to get progress reports first hand from U.S. military men.

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China has mobilized 1,000,000 workers to build a canal that could bring fresh water to the parched British colony, the newspaper China Mail reports.

Arrivals from the mainland said the canal would be able to supply Hong Kong with 28,000,000 gallons of fresh water a day.

Indonesia Pursuing 'Destructive' Course

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman charged Monday that Indonesia's "utterly reckless, destructive and irresponsible" leaders are pursuing a warlike course that "could explode into a disaster of major proportions."

With a new conflict threatening on the Borneo frontier, Malaysia asked Thailand to call an urgent meeting of Indonesian, Malaysian and Philippine foreign ministers.

A Malaysian foreign ministry spokesman said the decision to do so, taken at an emergency cabinet meeting, was taken in the hope the talks could salvage the tottering cease-fire on Borneo. The three countries in a recent foreign ministers meeting named Thailand to supervise the cease-fire.

Push the profit button

Telephones with pushbuttons on them are one of today's biggest aids to greater business efficiency (and, therefore, to greater profits). They are as convenient as having a miniature switchboard right at your finger tips and can prove a particular boon to expanding office operations.

With the compact six-button telephone, for example, you can receive outside calls on up to four separate lines, hold them and have them transferred. With the 18-button Call Director you can do all these things several times over.

There is almost no limit to the versatility of these "key systems", as we call them, and they can be adapted for large or small organizations alike. They also cost considerably less than many people imagine.

Why not get the facts on how one or more "key systems" could help your business run more smoothly and economically. We'll gladly give you an estimate on a system tailored to your own special requirements — naturally without any obligation. ## Horizontal Ties

AS PREMIER LESAGE sees it confederation in future will mean the provinces working more closely in pursuit of their similar aims whereas the role of the federal government will lessen. Since he couples this declaration with the statement that Ontario will not be alone in seeking a greater share of federal revenues it is not easy to see how the federal role will diminish.

The more is asked of Ottawa the more, inevitably, will the central government remain the focus of national affairs, a situation which in any case is inherent in confederation. A weak or secondary central government could not sustain the position of Canada as a nation, and its obligations are of necessity of a senior nature.

Mr. Lesage was probably emphasizing the need for greater inter-provincial co-operation, as witness his remark that relations at present are mainly vertical—between the several provincial regimes and Ottawa—rather than horizontal. A wider degree of common interest and problem sharing between the provinces would cement the bonds of unity on which the future of Canada must depend.

The Quebec premier's unusually warm official reception by Ontario on his goodwill visit to Toronto was perhaps a symbol of the kind of relationship which is in the best interests of the nation as a whole. It is probably true that provincialism is rampant at the expense of national sentiment, and the more the provinces were linked in common goodwill the better it would be for confederation and Canadianism.

As part of his current mission to explain Quebec to its fellow members of the national realm Mr. Lesage said Quebec must be accepted as it is, but of course this thesis works both ways. Each part of Canada must be accepted as it is and there has been no indication that the other provinces do not accept Quebec. Nor in fact precisely what Quebec desires to fulfil its important place in the hegemony of Canada.

The more the ten provinces co-operate, however, the more will the fellow-feeling of Canadians become real and manifest, and this only to the good of Canada as a nation.

Ferry Competition

IT IS DIFFICULT to believe that a Bellingham-to-Alaska ferry service such as is said to be mooted by interests in that city could compete profitably with the "Route of the Haida's" system planned by the B.C. government, connecting with the Alaska State Ferries at Prince Rupert.

The latter route, with its relatively short sea-link between Kelsey Bay and Prince Rupert, obviously would offer advantages of speed and economy through the use of the highway over much of the length of Vancouver Island.

But if only because competition of this nature possibly would produce two failures instead of one success there is cause for apprehension. The B.C. system of course could operate at a considerable direct deficit and still be counted worth the investment in terms of the business and development it will generate, on Vancouver Island and along the connecting inland highways of the mainland, and the corresponding new tax revenue. The siphoning off of even a fraction of its potential traffic by an all-American alternative, however, would lessen its effectiveness in regard both to its operating position and its beneficial side-effects.

The Chambers of Commerce of the Island therefore would seem to be well advised by Mr. Alan Maclean, director of the North Pacific Coastway Association, to try to counteract with an informative campaign of their own the pressure reported being exerted in Alaska by the Bellingham interests, in order that the people of the northern state will be in no doubt about the comparative virtues of the B.C. road-and-sea system. They presumably are the ones who would have to foot the bill for an uneconomic service.

Nor is this a matter for the Chambers alone to be concerned about. It calls for discussion also at the inter-governmental level, between British Columbia and Alaska. Perhaps an alert Premier Bennett has already seen to that, but if not, he should lose no time.

Getting Together

THE B.C. Progressive Conservatives have moved to adjust one disability that has marked their courses in recent years; they have decided to work together in both provincial and federal fields.

This is a wise step. Internecine rivalry has been a factor that prejudiced political success and undoubtedly one of the causes of the party's present status in the provincial realm. Too many jealousies and petty authorities have split the loyalties and prevented the unity that should mark party progress, particularly on a provincial level.

Of all the major political groupings the Conservatives seem to have had the unfortunate tendency of being unable to present a united front. And the effect of this on the voters is one reason why there are no MLAs of this historic party sitting at James Bay.

Mr. Fulton was correct when he said that this division of interest was one of the downfalls of the party, and two watertight compartments too much of a handicap to overcome.

Henceforth the B.C. party in full will control both provincial and federal affairs although with separate committees to look after the separate details. This should strengthen and improve the party chances in future and ensure a more united organization. To keep its end up a political party needs the enthusiasm and dedication of its members on both fronts, federal and provincial, working together if they hope to succeed.

Tasty Dishes

THE OTHER DAY there was mention on this page of the possibility of the soldier of the future eating his dinner and then, as the final delicacy, his sweet-flavored, edible plate.

Transferred to the civilian scene, advantages of crockery of this type immediately leap to mind. For example, no longer would mothers have to keep up the old admonition, "You can't have your dessert until you've eaten your vegetables." That would be obvious, barring ingenious undermining of the main course.

But another thought is less attractive. What if, ten minutes before the Snippingtons arrived for dinner, one discovered that Junior had climbed up to the cupboard and devoured all but one or two of the plates?

"By all means hire the other guide, Archbishop—after all, you both have so much in common."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships,
and sailing war ...
By TOM TAYLOR

I HEAR a whisper that Mayor Wilson has a bent for the poetic art and sometimes treats reporters to quatrains of improvised verse to put over his ideas.

He wouldn't claim to be a poet but instead, I suppose, to be a poetaster.

There's a place for the verse writer of doggerel or more lofty rhyme without him being able to reach supreme poetical heights. The gift of poetry is distributed to suit the varying strata of mankind, and happily so.

The Shakespeares, the Kiplings and the Byrons can come along only so often, after all.

A current example that comes to mind because this evening he will be dealing in a different kind of rhythmic expression is one Cassius Marcellus Clay, who hasn't been backward in showing the world how verse can flow from an imaginative tongue.

He does manage, at least, to make his lines rhyme if nothing else.

Two local friends of poetic renown I know who can at the drop of the hat manufacture neat verse compositions, full of wit and penetrating if homely philosophy, are Fred McGregor and Bill Kersey. They should be poet laureates, no less, for their aptness at turning poetry by assignment is beyond the ordinary.

Perhaps they have been demonstrating their powers to the mayor in private and these have rubbed off.

Anyway more power to the chief magistrate and his quatrains; such things enliven the civic scene.

Actually I envy him if he's developed this facility; for the poet Muse had her head turned away the day I was born. And I have felt bereft ever since.

Except that in the wide sense the expression of art or poetic thought may be manifest in different things, I am not sure that the Beatles belong in the context of the foregoing.

But if not the boys themselves—and who can deny their emotional impact on the sensitivity of young people—then perhaps their wallpaper.

They don't manufacture wallpaper, but they draw a royalty from it so they cannot well be dissociated.

Especially when the wallpaper in question carries their photographs.

Now wallpaper per se cannot arbitrarily be dismissed from poetic discussion; it can sum up all kinds of inspirational ideals of harmony and lyrical emotion supposing it be lovely to look at.

But a living-room wall papered with Beatles? The mind almost boggles at the prospect.

Yet a Manchester manufacturing firm has supplied a Montreal firm with no less than 24,000 rolls of wallpaper adorned with the classic gaze of the Liverpudlian lads. And orders are coming from all parts of the world.

One doubts the wallpaper is being bought by teenagers, unless for their own rooms, which suggests perhaps a new orientation of the poetic theme.

Decay in The Congo

Failure of Skill and Discipline

By TOM STACEY from Leopoldville

THE major challenge to the laboriously constructed unity of the Congo is one more generally being recognized as Katanga.

And an on-the-spot assessment in Elisabethville indicates that the familiar centrifugal yearnings are as alive today as ever.

In the southern Katangan provinces of Lualaba and East Katanga, and even—some disinterested specialists say—in North Katanga, many inhabitants look back upon the prosperous days of secession with a sharp and often expectant nostalgia.

Why? First the onrush of poverty (a national condition but more painful by far to the once-spoiled Katangans), and secondly the awful behavior of the Central Government soldiery. For the past year the soldiery has comported itself like an army of occupation whose duty and pleasure has been to beat and rob the local Katangan population.

Recently Evariste Kimba, abetted by old Katanga's ex-ministers, launched a new party of opposition. Meanwhile, various African Katangan notables have been exhorting the fifteen thousand or so former gendarmes of ex-president Tshombe who are now training in Angola at Teixeira de Sousa to refrain from their spasmic banditry and return home where patience will reward them in due time.

As for Tshombe himself, in his self-exile, an aura of deification surrounds his name. His own ultimate hopes are perhaps as obscure to himself as to us all—his political interest, however, persists.

A few things grow clearer daily. One is that the decision for the UN military force in Katanga (currently 5,470) and in the rest of the Congo to quit this scene by the end of June.

The Sea Otter

Long Climb Back

From the National Geographic News Bulletin

THE sea otter has come back from the brink of extinction to gambol again in Pacific waters. The journey took half a century.

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service estimates the present population of sea otters at around 40,000, scattered from the rock-bound coast of California to the Aleutian and Kuril Islands. Fifty years ago there were less than a thousand.

The sea otter's decline began in the 1740s when shipwrecked Russian sailors wintered on a barren island off Alaska and survived by eating what they called "sea apes." The National Geographic Society says. The survivors later built a ship and returned home with 900 sea otter pelts of the sea otter.

Tears and noblemen of Imperial Russia and mandarins in China soon prized the silky fur for trimming their opulent robes. Fur hunters sailed to America's western coast. Choice pelts sold for as much as $2,500 each. In one year, 50,000 pelts were taken.

Russia monopolized the trade until 1778 when Captain James Cook, searching for the fabled Northwest Passage, met Indians wearing thick fur shirts on Vancouver Island. The Indians lost their shirts in trade, and the otters lost all chance of survival without protection.

News protection. Attracted ships of many nations. Crews engaged in frantic rivalry involving mutilities and murder. The sea otter had virtually disappeared by 1911 when it was finally given protection under an international treaty.

will not be reversed unless order collapses or open defiance of the Central Government takes place before then.

It is understood that U Thant is resolved upon complete and swift disengagement, even in Rwanda where his representative's stubborn obscurantism throughout the recent massacre would otherwise be inexplicable.

Moreover despite the devoted service of some of its members, the reputation of UN here is being dogged by the persistent black marketeering, and on evidence I have inspected diamond smuggling by some of its more cynical members.

Even as I entered the post office to send this message, Congolese youths surrounded me offering packages of a thousand American cigarettes supplied to UN staff and sold by them.

Another point to emerge is that the still influential African

British School Experiment

French for Everyone

From Background to Britain

IF A pilot scheme to be introduced into British schools in September is successful, thousands of young schoolchildren may be chattering away quite happily in French in about 10 years time.

For Britain is now studying the practicability of introducing a second language into its primary schools on a large scale. In those schools being studied every child from the age of eight onward will be taught French.

Until now, a second language (usually French, because of the close geographical link between the two countries) has been taught in many preparatory schools and, of course, in private and state schools from the age of eleven.

In recent years, however, individual experiments have been carried out, notably in Leeds, where French has been taught to primary schoolchildren for the last four years. The results have been encouraging, with tremendous enthusiasm from both the children and the parents. Following this success, a co-operative experiment is now going ahead between teachers, local education authorities and Britain's ministry of education which will stretch over the next five years and provide a ground base for future policy.

A second language tuition for the very young naturally requires a special approach. So teachers from primary schools in 13 educational areas throughout Britain are now going through an intensive training course to equip them to undertake the teaching of French to their first class of eight-year-olds in September this year.

The whole experiment is being run on a voluntary basis, and those local education authorities and teachers who responded to an invitation by the ministry of education early in 1963 knew that there would be 12 months of concentrated work in front of them.

From the start it was realized that the teachers had to be far more than book-trained persons able to recite "Au clair de la lune" or write up the tenses of the verb "to be" from a textbook. They would have to have a fluent grasp of the spoken language so that they could pass to the children a natural oral appreciation of French in mime, acting, singing, and talking, as well as teaching other lessons, such as geography and music, in the same language.

The final batch of volunteers were selected by local authorities for their interest in French and their enthusiasm. Since last October they have been attending evening classes arranged by the local authorities. The pattern of teaching methods has varied from district to district, but at least four hours a week have been given to training.

Many areas already had language laboratories available, and since the scheme began still more have been set up, with installations of tape recorders and projectors which enable each student to follow an individual program of learning. Group conversation methods have also been used.

The second part of the ing a Gaullist re-entry on stage at the centre as the one man who can rescue a decaying Congo.

Decay it appears to be—slowly here, rapidly there—despite a UN and Belgian aid force of some 4,000 in every department of public service.

The failure is of skill and discipline: the tragedy being that the lack of one vitiates the other, and they are seldom present together.

Government projects are constantly foundering on a failure of follow-through. Many private enterprises, unprotected by effective law, suffer substantial loss through thieving employees—in the case of one tin mine, an official told me, up to 20 per cent of output.

But the hardest deterrent to the concerted and sustained assistance from overseas without which the Congo must return to the bush, is the lack of security of foreigners.

(London Sunday Times)

course started in January, when half the teachers travelled to the British Institute in Paris or the University of Besancon for a three months residential period. The other half will take their places for the summer term from April to June. Emphasis during this French stay will be on oral work and fluency, and here the teachers will be able to gain a first-hand picture of French life. They will be encouraged to read the newspapers and contemporary authors, watch French films and visit schools. Language laboratory work will be included and they will split into groups for conversation practice.

Filled with the sights, sounds (and presumably cookings) of France, the groups will return to Britain for the final section of the course—a 10-day session on teaching methods run by the ministry. These courses will be held in area centres and teachers will be shown the methods and materials available for teaching French in primary schools. New materials in the form of tapes, records, charts and books are being produced for the schools taking part in the scheme by the Nuffield Foundation, the charitable trust founded by the late Lord Nuffield to provide funds for important health and educational projects. But the teachers will also be free to work out their own ideas.

The training for teachers is intensive and demanding but very worth while. Next September, several thousand children in Britain's primary schools will be learning to talk, act and sing in French, and the results of this experiment will determine if and how soon French for everyone at an early age can become an integral part of British education.

Complex Contest

By MARQUE CHILDS from Concord, N.H.

A GREAT deal has been written about the first big Republican sweepstakes in the March 10 primary here. With so many entries it has the look of a free-for-all rodeo.

But little note has been taken of the possibility that with the Republicans locked in mortal combat the Democrats may carry the state in November. They already have the governor, one senator and, for the first time in New Hampshire history, a growing grassroots organization.

As a dreadful example of what fierce intraparty quarrel can mean New Hampshire has its real significance for the GOP. Such a quarrel two years ago gave the Democrats their foothold in this once-solidly-Republican state. As New Hampshire goes so, if this same quarrel between extreme right and moderate middle is projected onto the national stage, will go the nation.

One of the telling points Gov. Nelson Rockefeller makes in his intensive campaign for New Hampshire's delegate slate to the San Francisco convention is that he comes from the second most Republican state in the union with its governor, two senators, a majority of the congressional delegation and both houses of the legislature. Kansas is first. This is an implied appeal to New Hampshire men to unite on issues and candidates who can win.

On the right is Sen. Barry Goldwater, with some supporters so extreme and so shrill that they embarrass perhaps the candidate himself and certainly his mild-mannered, highly respected campaign manager, Sen. Morris Cotton.

In the moderate middle Rockefeller has until recently been rated the underdog with only an outside chance to make a respectable showing. But virtually everyone with whom Goldwater liutenants, agrees he is moving up fast.

So complex is the contest, with five delegate slates, each named alphabetically—and a separate popularity contest including write-in candidates—that serious politicians such as Republican National committeeman William Treadwell believe the election law must be changed. It encourages eccentrics to jump in and make a rather foolish Donnybrook out of what is becoming New Hampshire's principal industry.

The feud that split the party in 1962 runs like a deep fissure through the present contest. One of Goldwater's supporters is William Loeb of the Manchester Union-Leader, who has venomously the campaign with editorials calling Rockefeller "a wife-swapper" and a "stupid liar." In an editorial slamming Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., a write-in candidate, Loeb charged that Lodge as ambassador in Saigon had provided the "leadership" for the murder of Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother. Goldwater liutenants groan when such editorials appear, knowing that they will alienate middle-ground voters.

In 1922 Loeb went all out for Mrs. Dolora Bridges in a primary race for the Senate seat held by her late husband, Styles Bridges. She was narrowly defeated by Congressman Perkins Bass in a match inflamed by charge and countercharge. Then in November a Democrat, Thomas J. McIntyre, defeated Bass. Mrs. Bridges is co-chairman of the Goldwater drive.

At the third point of this triangle was former Gov. J. Wesley Powell, who deserted the ticket to support a Democrat, John King, for governor. This time Powell is promoting a write-in campaign for Richard Nixon.

Governor King, a shrewd politician who on issues is as bland as a bowlful of jelly, is considered a shoo-in for reelection this fall. He signed New Hampshire's sweepstakes bill, passed by the Republican legislature, which holds out the promise of aid to education in a state that has neither sales nor income tax and a high property levy. As one Republican put it, fighting King is like punching a pillow.

Besides the king-size ballot of delegates, voters must decide on a separate ballot whether they want to have sweepstakes tickets sold in their local state liquor stores and they must also pass on a proposed constitutional convention. And in small communities in town meetings, which incidentally should bring out a higher proportion of voters inclined to the conservative side than those of a labor or liberal persuasion in the cities, they will pick selectmen. This, in short, is democracy in about as pure—or at any rate concentrated—form as you can find, and if they finish tabulating the votes two or three days after the election that will in itself be a small miracle.

Public Didn't Abuse Access Into Woods

Fears of large timber concerns that they would be plagued with fires if they allowed public access to private roads have not been borne out, the legislature's access committee was told yesterday.

R. G. McKee, deputy forests minister, told the committee 100,000 people used the private roads last summer and only four fires resulted — all of them on Vancouver Island.

SMALL BLAZES

The four blazes were all under a tenth of an acre in size and none cost more than $5 to extinguish. One was caused by a cigarette and three by campfires.

The access committee a year ago drew up a draft bill designed to ensure public access to leased Crown lands but the legislation was not enacted. Instead, private timber companies pledged co-operation in spite of their concern over the outcome.

FIRMS RESPONSIBLE

Mr. McKee reminded the committee that the firms were concerned over a Forest Act amendment which made them responsible for extinguishing fires started by the public in the areas under their control. But, he added, the requirement had caused them no difficulty.

COMPANIES PAID

Companies are reimbursed for such expenses if they can establish that a fire was started by a member of the public.

Mr. McKee said the results of last summer showed that the public know how to behave in private timber stands.

R. G. McKee, fisheries research officer with the recreation and conservation department also told the committee the public had been well behaved in private forests last summer.

Record Budget

QUEBEC (CP) — Record budget estimates of $1,229,378,000 for the 1964-65 fiscal year were tabled in the legislature Monday by Premier Lesage, an increase of $68,000,000 from the current year. Details will be announced in the budget speech in April.

Mail Curbs Sought

Censure Bids Censured

OTTAWA (UPI) — Creditives, Liberals and Social Credit upheld Deputy Speaker Lamoureux, who ruled out of order a Creditist motion rapping the government for not increasing family allowances.

Both were sub-amendments to an original Conservative motion urging repeal of the 11 per cent building materials tax.

In the afternoon, Conservatives, Liberals and Social Credit upheld Deputy Speaker Lamoureux, who ruled out of order a Creditist motion rapping the government for not increasing family allowances.

At night, Commons committee chairman H. M. Batten indicated a motion condemning the government for failing to use building materials tax revenues to increase allowances was out of order, but reserved final decision until today.

CONFLICT SEEN

He said the sub-amendment was questionable because it conflicted with the original Conservative motion.

Meanwhile, a legislative move was made to deny use of the mails to organizations preaching racial and religious hatreds.

David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North) said he is introducing a bill to give Postmaster-General Nicholson power to stop mail service for such organizations as the National White Americans Party which says it is seeking Canadian members and plans to distribute 1,000,000 anti-Jewish leaflets during 1964.

The role of the RCMP in investigating the activities of Quebec's separatist "underground" brought concern in the Commons from two directions.

NDP leader T. C. Douglas, said there is a fear the arms stolen in three recent Quebec armory break-ins could be used for "civil insurrection" and asked intensified RCMP efforts to stop the Quebec Liberation Army.

Two French-speaking MPs — Louis-Joseph Pigeon (PC-Joliette - L'Assomption - Montcalm) and Gilles Grégoire (Creditist-Lapointe) voiced concern over reported RCMP investigation into the separatist ties of employees of the CBC's French networks.

Trouble Obvious, Says Squire

Four Workers Reinstated

Welfare Minister Black could have foreseen impending trouble in Prince George simply by reading his department's annual reports, the legislature was told yesterday.

It was obvious from the growth in the Prince George caseload over recent years that "something was going to happen," John Squire (NDP—Alberni) told the House.

Earlier in the day the welfare department announced four of five suspended Prince George social workers had been reinstated.

'SMEAR TACTICS'

The five were suspended last week after their signatures were appended to a telegram accusing provincial welfare director James Sadler of using smear tactics in publicly criticizing another social worker who protested conditions north of Fort St. John.

Still under suspension is part-time Prince George social worker Mrs. Bridget Moran. She launched a major welfare controversy shortly after Christmas when she sent a letter protesting welfare conditions to Premier Bennett. The letter and the later telegram were both released to the press.

Mrs. Moran told reporters yesterday she hoped to know her own fate by Wednesday.

The five were suspended Feb. 17 pending an investigation by assistant welfare director Robert Burnham. Four replacements were flown in and yesterday were reported still there.

BACKLOG OF CASES

In her letter to the premier Mrs. Moran had said Prince George social workers had such a backlog of cases they couldn't properly serve their charges.

Mr. Squire said previous welfare reports had pointed to a "tremendous increase" in the Prince George caseload.

Old System Scrapped By Tories

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Progressive Conservatives have scrapped their old system in which the party's federal and provincial wings elected their own executives.

A weekend convention decided provincial and federal committees will be elected by the full party membership.

The convention also decided to hire three or four men to stage a door-to-door membership canvass in the Vancouver-Kingway federal riding as a test.

Former MP Cecil Merritt, VC, of Vancouver was re-elected by acclamation as president of the B.C. Conservative Association. John Loader of Victoria is a vice-president.

Community Interest Urged in Welfare

More community participation is needed in social welfare work because when a community takes an interest in people's problems it can do a job that a paid worker cannot do, Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch told the legislature yesterday.

He also said:

● There should be no welfare for able-bodied people out of work, who should be made to take a job re-training educational program.

● Someone "within the community" should be given the job of collecting dog tag licence fees and looking after dogs which run wild. It is not a job for the RCMP, and "maybe there would be some enforcement."

● A county system should be established for administration of hospitals and school boards within county areas.

● An agricultural survey is needed for the Port Renfrew area.

● Taking natural resources away from provincial parks in return for public access roads would create a few thousand jobs give a few thousand people access they didn't have before.

Bowron Funeral Friday

Miss Lottie Bowron, noted Victoria clubwoman and secretary to former premier Sir Robert McBride, died yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital in her 87th year. Funeral will be

After his death in 1917, she returned to Victoria and became secretary to the provincial mines minister. She was later appointed welfare officer for rural teachers, a post she held until her retirement in 1934.

Alice Parfitt

Funeral services will be held in Sands' chapel at 3 p.m. Wednesday for Mrs. Alice Parfitt, wife of one of the founders of Parfitt Bros. Construction, who died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital. She was 82.

Born in Bristol, England, she came to Victoria 35 years ago. She was a long-time member of the Flora Cogswell missionary group, and performed as a soloist with the choir of Emmanuel Baptist Church. Her husband Mark, 1875 Fernwood, began his construction firm here in 1907.

Robert D. Smith

Robert Donald Smith, 1359 Carnarvon, former chief clerk with the department of education and a civil servant for 36 years, died last week at 65. Funeral services were held here yesterday.

Mr. Smith had lived in Victoria for 46 years, and worked for the provincial government until 1953, when he retired due to ill health.

He was a life member of the Native Sons of Canada, and past president of Victoria Assembly No. 1. During the First World War, Mr. Smith served with the Royal Flying Corps.

Walter Gosse

Capt. Walter Gosse of Vancouver, one of the best-known marine pilots on the West Coast died of a heart attack in Sydney, N.S., Sunday.

A native of Victoria, he had been a pilot since 1937 and was a senior member of the pilotage district here with a permanent licence. The son of Capt. Josiah Gosse, who held B.C. Pilotage licence No. 1, he was a founder of the national pilots' committee of the Canadian Merchant Seamen's Guild.

Capt. Gosse was at sea for 44 years before becoming a pilot. In 1916 he started with the CPR, working his way up to officer status aboard Empress ships on the Orient run. Later he worked for the Border Line Navigation Co. and was master of the Border Queen and Border Prince. He

She joined the civil service as a stenographer in the department of mines in 1904, and also did secretarial work during sessions of the B.C. Legislature in the early 1900s.

She was Sir Richard McBride's secretary until 1916, while he was Conservative premier, and remained with him when he became B.C.'s agent-general in London.

Prince No Servant

LONDON—Prince William of Gloucester, 22, cousin of the Queen, and now taking a post-graduate course in economics at California's Stanford University, has failed a British civil service entrance exam for the second and last time.

The exam was for entry into the commonwealth relations office, as was his first, and a family spokesman said: "Unfortunately he just failed each time, unfortunately, under the regulations he cannot have another go."

COPENHAGEN—Sources said Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark will embrace the Greek Orthodox faith and give up her right to the Danish throne in order to marry Prince Constantine of Greece next January.

THE HAGUE—Dutch court sources said the wedding of Princess Irene and French-born Spanish Prince Carlos Hugo has been postponed a month, apparently due to Dutch government confusion over his nationality.

ATHENS—Greek Queen Frederika, 47, is suffering from pneumonia and had a "rather uneasy day," a royal announcement said.

LONDON—Self-taught French biologist Gaston Nerson, whose anti-leukemia serum has been condemned in France, has accepted an offer by Scottish businessman Daniel Davis of £3,000 a year to continue his work in Britain.

IRON RIVER, Mich.—Henry Burns, 71, survived a night and a day in a hollow log in the frozen woods after straying during a hike. His legs are frozen, his hands frost-bitten.

LAUSANNE—Swiss Dr. Gerard Ravy, a prominent nerve specialist, is being tried for drugging and slowly murdering rich American widow Marjorie Bird, who died in 1961 at 64. In the same case, self-styled Romanian prince Nicholas Sturdza, 50, her confidant, is charged with stealing $700,000 of her jewelry as she died.

TORONTO—Saying they wanted "something meaningful to come out of their tragedy," Mr. and Mrs. John Downing donated the bodies of their three children to medical science. The children died when carbon monoxide filled their home from a car left running in the garage.

LONDON—Britain's meteorological office has changed its mind and hired Patricia Miller, 17, daughter of a U.S.-born RAF pilot, now a British citizen, she had been barred because her father was not British born.

OTTAWA—Dr. Yves Fortier, 50, chief of the federal geological survey division whose work in the far north helped focus attention on the Arctic, has been awarded the coveted Massey medal by the Royal Canadian Geographical Society.

on a drunk charge, was sent to Vancouver to face a non-capital murder charge in the 1962 death of divorcee Edith Byson, 43, thrown from a second-storey hotel window.

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—State assemblyman Robert Hatch, a Republican rising 11 days, returned home from Los Angeles saying he sought financial aid from friends because he was "nearly frantic" trying to do well in both politics and business. He asked constituents to let him know if he should quit.

LONDON—Philosopher Bertrand Russell and other eminent men warned nuclear war is possible in the Middle East. An appeal to the Arab states and Israel to accept international supervision of nuclear and rocket weapons was signed by Dr. Albert Schweitzer, professor Albert Pauling and Jean-Paul Sartre.

MONTREAL—John Pratt, former showman and now mayor of the suburb of Dorval, has been appointed administrator and producer of the entertainment branch of the 1967 Montreal world fair.

OAKVILLE, Ont.—Postman Peter Birchland, 38, was ordered by a court last week to pay two neighbors $4,500 damages because he keeps 37 "snelly" alligators and crocodiles in his basement. Other neighbors now have launched a fund to raise the money.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas—C. C. Green, who returned a wallet containing $1,100 to its owner when he found it last year, had his wallet containing $430 returned to him. He didn't even know he had lost it.

Acrobatics Save Craneman

MONTREAL (CP)—A crane operator and a fireman took part Monday in a breathtaking rescue high over the McGill University campus.

Flames and smoke curled up from a new students' building under construction, trapping Rene Tremblay, 32, in the cabin atop the 100-foot crane.

Fireman Richard Chartrand tried to reach Tremblay by aerial ladder but it was 15 feet too short. Tremblay then tied a rope to the crane's T-bar and lowered himself so Chartrand could pull him by the legs onto the aerial ladder.

Publisher 'Lost Faith' In Coffin Trial Notes

QUEBEC (CP)—Top Quebec lawyers questioned Jacques Hebert for almost three hours Monday as a royal commission into the Coffin case got under way here.

At the request of one of the lawyers, who has another case this week, the one-man royal commission inquiry was adjourned by Judge Roger Brossard of Montreal until next Monday.

HEBERT, 41-year-old Montreal publisher whose book J'Accuse les Assassins de Coffin (I Accuse Coffin's Assassins) spurred the inquiry, was questioned mainly about his source material.

He testified he had read only parts of the stenographic notes taken during the trial of Wilbert Coffin. He had not attended the trial or other stages of the case, and became interested in it after reading various accounts of it.

At one point, Hebert denied that the Toronto Star was the principal source for the material in the book.

He said he had interviewed witnesses and detectives, read newspapers and documents to gather material.

Coffin, 43-year-old Gaspe prospector, was hanged in 1956 for the slaying of Richard Lindsey, 17, of Hollidayville, Pa. Lindsey's body and those of his father Eugene, 47, and a friend, Frederick Clair, 20, were found in the Gaspe woods in 1953.

U.S. PRESSURE: Hebert maintained in his book that Coffin was the victim of a search for someone to blame the crime on. The search was spurred, he said, by United States pressure on the Quebec government.

Raymond Droust, Hebert's lawyer, asked why he had not paid closer attention to stenographic notes from the trial as source material.

Hebert replied that he was "chiefly interested in new facts" and after he had learned that Chief Inspector J. A. Matte of Quebec Provincial Police was coaching witnesses, he had lost faith in the notes. Inspector Matte, who led police investigation into the killing of the hunters, was among those present as the inquiry began.

Tragedies Kill Five Islanders During Weekend

Hope was virtually abandoned yesterday for three young Vancouver Islanders missing on a west coast boat trip during a weekend that saw two other Islanders lose their lives.

Known dead are Derek Gordon, 12, of Woss Lake on the northern end of the island, whose body was found Sunday at the foot of a 60-foot bluff, and Thomas Brown, 19, of Cedar, drowned Saturday off Valdes Island.

MISSING MEN

The missing men are Alfred Andrew, Friendly Cove Reservation; Jackie Morris, Hot Springs Cove, and John Deen of Nuchatitz on the west coast. All are in their early 20s.

The three had left Tahsis Saturday afternoon on a 20-mile trip to Friendly Cove in a 15-foot outboard boat.

NEW SHOES

A search was organized when they failed to arrive, and their boat was found floating stern-under. In it were one new pair of shoes, a single shoe with the laces still tied, two jackets and two hard hats.

During Sunday's search, shared by an Albatross aircraft from Air-Sea Rescue, a third jacket was found on the beach at Boston Point. Monday, when boats from surrounding points joined the search, the gas tank from the boat was found.

TAHIS RCMP

RCMP from Tahsis, taking part in the search which will continue today, are not optimistic.

"The water is pretty cold," they said last night. "Very few bodies are ever recovered in this area."

MILE AWAY

The young man was helping with the construction of a house on Pylades Island and had gone alone by boat to Blackberry Point on Valdes Island only about a mile away, on the previous day.

The 16-foot boat, with an outboard motor, in which he had made the journey was discovered not far from the probable scene of the accident with the motor still in gear.

FELL OVERBOARD

Brown was wearing a life preserver when found. An autopsy showed that death was due to drowning and there was no suspicion of sudden illness or foul play. Coroner Russell Inkster held an inquiry. It is assumed that somehow Brown fell overboard and was unable to reach the boat.

The dead youth's parents live in Burnaby.

HIKING TRIP

Alert Bay RCMP said the Gordon boy had gone missing on a weekend hiking trip with two companions. His home is about 60 miles north of Alert Bay.

Police said the boy left his companions to go back up a trail in search of a lost jackknife, and apparently stumbled over the bluff in the darkness.

Schlitz Reports Higher Earnings

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., whose plan to acquire the Labatt Brewing Co. in Canada is being opposed by the Justice department, Monday reported a 31 per cent gain in earnings for 1963.

Net income of Schlitz was $12,930,000 or $2.76 a share on net sales of $213,600,000 compared with $9,820,000 or $2.05 a share in 1962 on net sales of $184,430,000.

M'ba Fires Half Of Cabinet

LIBREVILLE, (Ghana) (UPI) — President Lee M'ba fired half of his cabinet Monday and postponed parliamentary elections until April 15, in moves to appease the political opponents who toppled him briefly Feb. 15.

M'ba, 60, who was restored two days later by French paratroopers, formed a seven-man caretaker cabinet which included five of the outgoing 14 ministers and two young technicians.

Mighty Awakening Need of the Hour

The answer to the world problem of church unity and the greatest need of the hour is a mighty awakening from God and the revival of pure Christianity, a Protestant rally of more than 250 people was held in Central Baptist Church last night.

Retired Central Baptist minister, Dr. J. B. Rowell, was speaking on the official facts and implications concerning the Second Vatican Council.

He said what was required was a personal fellowship with God, greater passion for the glory of Christ and a greater care for the souls of men.

Reunion Planned By Flying Club

Past and present members of Victoria Flying Club and their friends will join in a reunion party Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Mills Road Legion Hall.

He quoted Bishop Remi De Roo as saying he was willing to do all he could for Christian unity, short of giving up the faith and doctrine in which he believed.

"He has every right to take this stand, but we have every right to refuse to accept all he believes regarding the faith and doctrine of his church," Dr. Rowell said.

$450,000 Offer Cooling

OTTAWA (CP) — A prominent Ottawa family is having a hard time trying to donate $450,000 to the city of Ottawa for a medical research centre.

Unless the picture changes by next Monday the offer will be withdrawn in much the same manner that a Chicago-based offer to build a 200-bed hospital on land it owns in the capital.

If city council fails to accept the donation by midnight next Monday, the Loeb family through the Loeb Foundation will make an outright contribution of $500,000 to Carleton University.

The five surviving brothers of the Loeb family — Norman, Herman, Jules, David and Dr. Lazarus — offered the money to the city in memory of their parents, Moses and Rose Loeb, and a physician brother, Dr. Henry H. Loeb, who practised at the Ottawa Civic Hospital until his death in 1949.

Under the offer the identification of the building must include the Loeb family name and the Civic Hospital. After the centre has been built the family will assume no responsibility for maintenance, staff and research costs.

The Loeb family has stipulated that city council must accept the offer unanimously. One dissenting vote will mean that Carleton University will get an outright gift of $500,000.

The Little Company of Mary of Chicago offered to build a hospital in Ottawa to help the city cope with a serious shortage of hospital beds. The offer was withdrawn after one of the most acrimonious controversies in the city's history.

Makarios May Bypass Thant on Cyprus Issue

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — President Archbishop Makarios is reported considering bypassing United Nations Secretary General Thant and appealing to the General Assembly to guarantee Cyprus against invasion.

Such a move would be aimed at abrogating the 1960 treaty under which Britain, Greece and Turkey guaranteed Cyprus' independence and constitution and were given bases on the island.

Reports at UN headquarters in New York said Cypriot insistence on a UN guarantee have stalled Thant's efforts to find a compromise on a peace force for the island.

Official Greek Cypriot sources said Makarios and his ministers are adamantly opposed to Thant's reported in-VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, B.C.'s biggest lumber-pulp operator, Monday termed as "highly unrealistic" union demands for a 40-cent-an-hour increase in a new contract.

The spokesman said "they are likely to impose a great deal of caution upon those forest industry companies who are contemplating spending large sums of money on expansion in B.C."

40-CENT BOOST

The International Woodworkers of America disclosed its demands will include a 40-cent increase for all 25,000 in the coast region, with tradesmen and improvers asking another 30 cents on top of that.

The demands would cost the forestry industry an estimated $28,500,000 more a year.

FRINGE BENEFITS

The IWA also wants fringe benefits which employer negotiators say would cost another 10 cents an hour. Present base rate for woodworkers is $2.04 an hour.

Negotiations between the union and Forest Industrial Relations, which represents the employers, will open about March 18. The present two-year contract expires June 15.

Employment Service Shifted

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Employment Service is being shifted into the federal labor department from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Labor Minister MacEachen announced Monday.

He said the move, suggested by the special committee of inquiry on unemployment insurance, will result in a stronger and more positive approach being made to the solution of manpower problems in Canada.

LEADERSHIP THROUGH RESEARCH

In our many modern laboratories throughout the world, young scientists are hard at work. They are always seeking, searching, studying ways to improve our products.

Our tobaccos are the best money can buy. (We are now using over 20 grades of Virginia to blend each cigarette.) We have developed one of the finest filters in the world. Our paper is specially made from flax—and pure mountain water. And our cigarettes are produced by the most modern techniques in North America.

Still, our research men are never satisfied. Their work never ends. And every day, they help us move a step closer to the perfect cigarette.

Over the years, the time, money, equipment and scientific skill which we have invested in research have been most rewarding. We have brought to smokers these important "firsts":

The first king size cigarette in the world.

The first high porosity cigarette paper in the world.

We are proud of these major advances. Our competitors flatter us by copying them. But our concern is not with competitors. We are interested only in offering you the benefits of modern research first from Rothmans.

Zephyrs Braves Breeze

Halda Braves crushed North Saanich, 73-39, in the first game of a two-game total-points series for the lower island juvenile basketball championship last night at Mount View gym.

Victoria Zephyrs blew past VBA, 36-20, in the first game of the city midweek series that was the other half of a double-header.

Terry Whitman and Dave Bowie scored 16 points each and Pete Harold added another 14 for Braves. Bob Loughheed's 12 was tops for North Saanich. Roger Skillings' 19 points led Zephyrs.

SENIORS

Bears Win Rugby Test

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Tom Blanchfield's 18 points provided the margin of victory for the University of California Monday as the Bears defeated the University of British Columbia 21-8 and took a one-game lead in the annual World Cup rugby competition between the two schools.

The first game Saturday ended in a 6-6 tie.

Hunt Shows Winning Form

Victoria's Bob Hunt didn't quite make Canada's Thomas Cup team but he'll be one of the players to beat in the provincial badminton championships in Vancouver next week.

Playing in fine form Sunday, Hunt salvaged one title for Victoria in the Vancouver Island Open tournament by defeating Rolf Peterson of Vancouver, 15-4, 15-9, in the men's singles final.

To keep his chance to retain the title, Hunt had first to beat Ed Peterson in the semi-finals. He came from behind to do it, winning, 4-15, 15-4.

The Peterson brothers, who will play on the Thomas Cup team, won the doubles by defeating Hunt and Ed Hadley, 15-11, 15-4.

As expected, the Port Angeles teen-agers, Tyna Barings and Caroline Jensen, dominated the women's events. Miss Barings defeated Miss Jensen in the singles and the pair combined to win the doubles.

Results:

Women's Singles—Tina Barings, Port Angeles, defeated Caroline Jensen, Port Angeles, 15-1, 15-2.

Men's Singles—Bob Hunt defeated Rolf Peterson, Vancouver, 15-4, 15-9.

Women's Doubles—Barings and Jensen defeated Miss Nilsson, Vancouver, and Denise Armstrong, Seattle, 15-1, 15-3.

Men's Doubles—Ed Peterson and Rolf Peterson, Vancouver, defeated Hunt and Ed Hadley, 15-11, 15-4.

Mixed Doubles—Joanne Jones, Seattle, and Ed Peterson, defeated Virginia An-

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Japan will meet Canada in Vancouver March 6-7 in the second round of American zone competition in the world badminton championships.

Winner of the Japan-Canada matches will play the U.S. champions in Victoria March 13 and 14 for the American zone championship.

Four zone winners then will play off in Japan in mid-May and the winner of that series takes on defending champion Indonesia for the Thomas Cup.

Japan, without losing a match, swept to an easy victory Sunday night over Mexico in the American zone's first round during the nine-match two-day competition.

Mexico, competing in the world event for the first time, was no match for the flashy, experienced Japanese team.

After sweeping all four opening matches Saturday night, the Japanese won Sunday night's five final matches with almost the same ease.

In singles, Yoshio Komiya defeated Antonio Rangel, 13-15, 15-11, Takeki Miyazawa defeated Raul Rangel, 15-4, 15-6, and Eiichi Nagai defeated Oscar Lujan, 13-15, 15-8.

In doubles, Nagai and Eiichi Sakai defeated Antonio Rangel and Manuel Ordozica, 15-1, 15-3. Komiya and Yoshio Itagaki defeated Lujan and Guillermo Allier, 15-4, 15-3.

The Japanese team will leave for Vancouver Friday.

GEORGE KNUDSON of Toronto finished with 74 Sunday for a 72-hole hole total of 277 and won the Caracac Open golf tournament. Ramon Sota of Spain was next at 280 and Art Wall third at 281.

Sam Snead stood off a late challenge by John Barmum on Sunday to win his first PGA seniors' golf tournament with a nine-under-par 279 for 72 holes at Palm Beach Gardens.

Barmum wound up at 282 and Dutch Harrison, who was within one stroke at one point, was third with 285. Snead won $2,500 and a trip abroad to play the British championship.

Vancouver Canucks are worried over losing star forward Billy McNeill because of a leg injury.

The Canadian Badminton Federation announced Sunday that it would not defend the Harmsworth Trophy this year.

JIM TRIMBLE of Montreal Alouettes and Joe Kuharich, formerly with Washington Redskins, are reported to be the top choices for job as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

NEIL ARMSTRONG, one-time end star with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and now assistant coach of the Houston Oilers of the AFL, may be the new coach of the Edmonton Eskimos.

Line-man Forest Gregg, who recently signed as coach with University of Tennessee, has resigned to continue his career with Green Bay Packers. He got an offer too good to refuse.

23-year-old Ralph Howe of Locust Valley, N.Y., is the new U.S. squash champion. He beat Neale Salun, four-time champion, in four sets Sunday.

Margaret Burvill of Australia has broken her own record for the women's 220-yard dash. Her new time is 22.9 seconds.

Kimberley Rink Contender Again

EDMONTON (CP)—Ina Hansen of Kimberley, winner in 1962, runner-up in 1963 and favorite this year, won her first two games on Monday to gain a three-way tie for the lead in the women's Canadian curling championships.

The British Columbia skip, now 19.2 in her three successive years of competition in the Canadian final, defeated Newfoundland, 14-7, and Quebec, 10-4, in her two games.

EARLY TROUBLE
B.C. had early trouble against Newfoundland, dropped behind by 2-5, trailed by 5-7 after six ends, then scored nine straight points, climaxed by a five on the last end.

Against Quebec's Anne Phillips, who finished a strong third in 1962, the B.C. rink was in control all the way.

Ontario's Helen Hanrigh of Ottawa came from behind to defeat Nova Scotia, 11-7, then passed past Prince Edward Island, 12-5.

BIG END
Joan Callaghan of Bathurst, defending the title won for New Brunswick last year by Mabel DeWare of Moncton, showed ability to score big ends in sweeping by P.E.I. and Newfoundland.

Three three-ends did in Mary Nicholson of Montague while two four-ends made the difference in a 13-7 win over Tinker Rockwell of Newfoundland.

SPECTACULAR SHOT
British Columbia's second entry, representing Alberta, won on a mint and lost on a spectacular shot.

Mickey Down's Dawson Creek rink got Manitoba, 9-8, when Manitoba skip Myrtle McGregor fanned on her last rock and allowed the Alberta representative a chance for a three-ender.

However, Rene Snow of Nova Scotia made a great double with her last rock on an extra end to count two and defeat the Dawson Creek rink, 9-7.

NEW Refs Tonight In Stars' Big Test

Two Victoria-area referees have been ordered for the remaining game or games of the best-of-three series for the Vancouver Island hockey championship.

The last-ditch stand for All-Stars takes place tonight at Esquimalt Sports Centre. Stars will go with a patched-up goalie, John Tesky of Army, who suffered a head cut in Saturday night's defeat. If Esquimalt wins, the final game will be played at the Sports Centre Thursday. Winner plays Powell River for the coast championship.

The two Victoria refs, unnamed so far, had been ordered prior to the start of the series to handle the games here so

Leafs Find Right Formula Two Ex-Rangers Hustling

Toronto Maple Leafs appear to have found the look they sought with the surprising Saturday trade which brought them Don McKenney and Andy Bathgate.

Slipping towards fourth place in the National Hockey League standings and looking far from capable of defending the Stanley Cup as their attack bogged down, the Leafs three goals. Pulford drew three assists, Pappin two.

McKenney seemed to be just what Dave Keon and slumping George Armstrong needed. Keon scored twice, on Sunday, while Armstrong had a goal and three assists in the two games to give the line five goals and six assists.

The new "first" line of Red Kelly, Frank Mahovlich and Bathgate got only one goal in the two games but had a lot of the puck and Bathgate was prominent in the attack.

BREAKS TIE
In Sunday's 4-3 win over Rangers, it was Keon who came out the hero. He broke a 3-3 tie with 28 seconds left, picking Armstrong's rebound and driving the puck home from 10 feet.

Meanwhile, Chicago Black Hawks again drew even with Montreal Canadiens in their first-place tussle, getting a solid assist from the recently-potent Detroit Red Wings.

CANADIENS EDED
Hawks hung a 2-0 shutout, rather easily, on the last-place Boston Bruins while the Wings edged Canadiens, 3-2, with some second-period heroics from goal-keeper Terry Sawchuk.

Victory gave the Wings a 7-1 record for their last nine games while the Canadiens are 6-2-1 for the same period. The only Detroit loss was inflicted by Montreal while Canadiens' two defeats came at the hands of the Wings.

SHORT POOL
She also broke American and Canadian records in the 100 and 200-metre backstroke.

When action ended Sunday, there were 22 new open Canadian marks and seven new American standards. The Santa Clara club broke 12 records.

THREE STANDOUTS
Among the Canadians who stood out were two Vancouver youngsters and a 12-year-old Victorian who owns more than 20 Canadian records.

Jane Hughes, a 15-year-old from Vancouver's Dolphin Swimming Club, became the first Canadian woman to swim the 400-metre freestyle in less than five minutes. She was timed in 4:56.7 in a race won in 4:45.7 by world-champion Sharon Finnan of Santa Clara. Miss Finnan's time was a new Canadian record.

Ron Jacks, 16-year-old Vancouver YMCA swimmer, set two Canadian records in winning three events and placing second in two others.

Victoria's Vito Dunford, credited with 29 Canadian records, broke one of them in winning the 50-metre butterfly for boys 11 and 12 in 34.4 seconds.

Dunford also won the 100-metre breaststroke in his class and placed second in the 100-metre freestyle and 100-metre backstroke.

MORE WINNERS
Victoria had another individual winner in Grant Treloar, who won the 100-metre backstroke for boys 13 and 14 while the Victoria YMCA won the 200-metre freestyle relay for boys 11 and 12.

Zero Hour Here For Gaseous One

By JACK CUDDY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)

Cassius Clay, rapidly approaching the zero hour when he'll have to use his fists instead of his mouth, kept on bragging Monday, but Sonny Liston remained a 7-1 favorite to win their $5,000,000 heavy-weight championship bout tonight.

The gabby challenger made his latest, perhaps final, forecast when he paid an uncheduled visit Monday to the ring in the Miami Beach Convention Hall where he and Liston will tangle for Liston's title.

MARKS SPOT
"I want to get in there and mark an 'X' on the canvas where that big ugly bear of a Liston is goin' to fall tomorrow night in the eighth round," proclaimed boxing's "Louisville Lip."

But, perhaps symbolically, Clay was thwarted in this desire by the fact that the ring was cluttered with lights and other paraphernalia and he was unable to climb into the squared circle.

Obviously irritated, the unbeaten challenger, in dark slacks and black sports jacket with "Bear Huntin'" painted in white letters on the back, walked out front of his limousine with its two telephones inside.

The confidence in his voice did not reflect the betting odds that made 30-year-old champion Liston the 7-1 favorite to make his successful defence of the crown he won from Floyd Patterson in 1962 on a first-round knockout and defended on a similar opening session kayo against Patterson last July 22.

Curling 'First' For Marasco

By JIM TANG

PORT ALBERNI — Jim Marasco, up until this curling season better known for his ability on a golf course, provided further evidence over the weekend that he may even be better as a curler.

Following up his fine showing in the Pacific Coast Curling Association playdowns, Marasco scored a first in the Alberni Valley Curling Club's men's bonspiel by scoring a sweep. It was the first time in the 12-year-old history of the event that a rink from the host club had gone unbeaten.

CLOSE CALL

Although he had several close calls along the way, Marasco came up with 11 straight victories to win the Grand Aggregate bonspiel and the Alberni Hardware and Daily Colonist primary events. Curling with him were vice-skip Frank Hickey and second Ken

FIRST SLIP

His first slip came in the Alberni Hardware event. Osborne came home all tied up with one rock left for each skip had a rock on the button partially covered on the out-turn side. Osborne had to cover on the other side but his guard pulled too far and Marasco executed a soft takeout and stuck for the winning point.

On Sunday in the finals of the Daily Colonist event, Osborne had a last-rock tie coming home. When he went down for his last rock he faced two counters, one in the middle of the eight-foot ring. He played for a tap from the outside in and his out-turn pulled right to give Marasco a 10-8 victory.

ALL DIVIDED

The other four events were evenly divided. The secondaries were won by Ron Dunn of Nanaimo and Bill McLean's Victoria rink, skipped by O. J. Powell, while Jim Williams of Vancouver and Carl Gislason of the host club came out on top in the two tertiary events.

Court Parade

Repeater Imprisoned

A man who was charged with indecent assault two weeks after he was released from prison on a similar charge was sentenced to six months imprisonment in Esquimalt magistrate's court yesterday.

Stephen Cassidy of the Chandler Hotel pleaded guilty last week, and court was told he made indecent advances to a 14-year-old baby-sitter.

"It is impossible to say the effect of such conduct on a child of this age," said Magistrate William Ostler in passing sentence. "I think it is obvious you need psychiatric help."

A man who left a 100-foot skid mark on the Mayfair Shopping Centre parking lot Friday night was fined $350 in city court when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Court was told Kenneth E. Roy, 1580 Derby, collided with a truck on the parking lot at about 8:15 p.m., causing $1,800 damage to the two vehicles.

Edward Rose, no fixed address, was sentenced in city court to two months imprisonment when he was found guilty of vagrancy. He is also facing charges of attempted breaking and entering which arose from the same incident. He was released from Oakalla two days before the incident occurred.

Receiving unemployment insurance overpayments of $76 over a two-month period in 1962 landed a man in city court charged with making false statements to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Court was told James Watson, 4042 Carey, collected the payments without telling the commission he had been working. He has since repaid the money. Watson was remanded to Feb. 29 for probation report and sentence.

Griffin Layne, 1825 Cook, was found guilty in city court on a charge of impaired driving. He was remanded one week for probation report and sentence.

William Paterson, 114 Sims, was fined $300 in Esquimalt court when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Clamp Cause of Death Intern Tells Inquest

TORONTO (UPI) — A coroner's inquest was told Monday that a surgical clamp left in the stomach of a 32-year-old woman following an operation in a Toronto hospital caused her death 18 days after the operation.

Patricia Morgan died in East General Hospital last Nov. 4 following an operation Oct. 18 for cancer.

The hospital's senior intern, Dr. H. A. Kennedy, testified at the inquest opening yesterday that he performed an autopsy on Miss Morgan and found the clamp in the left portion of her abdomen. He said two loops of the small bowel had gone through one ring of the handle of the six-inch clamp.

The loops were "gangrenous and blue," he said.

Miss Morgan's death was not reported to Metropolitan Toronto coroner, Dr. Morton Shulman, because the hospital's chief surgeon Dr. Burns Plewes, felt it was not a case of "deliberate malpractice."

Dr. Kenneth Brown started the Oct. 18 operation. A senior intern questioned the length of the operation and called in Dr. Plewes. The operation was then completed by another doctor.

Hospital pathologist Dr. S. F. Penny testified Dr. Brown felt he wasn't responsible because he hadn't completed the operation. Dr. Penny said he told Dr. Brown the coroner should be notified about Miss Morgan's death.

"Was the word 'negligence' discussed?" asked John Hollahan, lawyer representing the Crown.

"I think it was mentioned, yes," Dr. Penny replied.

The woman's death certificate attributed death to stomach cancer and "acute intestinal obstruction," but made no mention of the clamp.

However, later pathological investigations failed to find any residual evidence of cancer.

Dr. Penny said he felt he wasn't responsible because he hadn't completed the operation. Dr. Penny said he told Dr. Brown the coroner should be notified about Miss Morgan's death.

Chief Justice Lett Leaves Hospital

Child Badly Burned

A two-year-old girl whose clothes caught fire while she was playing with matches Sunday night suffered burns to 20 per cent of her body, her doctor said yesterday.

Valerie Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, 45 Hallowell, found the matches while under the care of her sister, Marie. Her feet, legs, body, face and hands sustained first and second degree burns.

Police said Marie called a doctor, who called Esquimalt police. Although the Thomas home is in Colwood territory, Esquimalt sent its ambulance to save time.

The girl was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where she is reported in good condition.

Officers Finish Training

Seven Greater Victoria policemen have returned to Victoria after completion of an intensive two-week training course in law and police procedures at the Vancouver Police Academy.

Attending were Sgt. Angus Stewart and Juvenile Officer Norman Galbraith of the Victoria police department; Const. Jack Bryan and Const. Ralph Sinden, Oak Bay; Const. Jack Wright and Const. Edward Taylor, Esquimalt; and Const. John Gelling, Central Saanich.

Const. Taylor led the class with 93 per cent.

Woman Fair After Crash

A woman was in only fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday following an accident early Saturday on Sooke Road.

Sooke RCMP said Mrs. Maude Bains of Otter Point was injured while a passenger in her husband David's car. The car went out of control on the McKendrick Creek bridge, hit a power pole and overturned. Mr. Bains was not seriously injured.

Liquor, Beer, Food Stolen

Four bottles of liquor, a case of beer and a dozen golf balls were stolen overnight Friday from the home of G. H. Coffey, 1783 Rockland.

Mrs. Gladys Olson, 78 San Jose, reported a quantity of groceries stolen from her home sometime Saturday.

Edward Courtepatte, 523 Springfield, reported to police someone had stolen a TV aerial from the roof of his house Saturday.

New B-A Durafilm Motor Oil can give you a smoother running engine

It eliminates oil-induced pre-ignition and plug fouling

Should you use B-A Durafilm in your car engine? If you own a late model car or are planning the purchase of a new one, B-A Durafilm is the motor oil for your car. B-A Durafilm was created for the high-powered engines of today's automobiles. These engines are harder on component parts. Valves, cams, bearings and spark plugs are subject to greater stresses; higher temperatures. And crankcases are getting smaller. This means that these more powerful engines have to be lubricated with less oil. Obviously, the oil must be a lot more efficient.

Surpasses all car manufacturers' requirements. New B-A Durafilm motor oil has been fully tested under conditions prescribed by the car manufacturers' themselves. In every case, B-A Durafilm surpassed by far the requirements of the most severe service tests. B-A Durafilm is not just a good motor oil, it is a vastly superior motor oil.

B-A Durafilm keeps engines clean. Newly developed and extremely powerful detergents and inhibitors have been used in new B-A Durafilm. The inhibitors prevent oil breakdown at high temperatures. The detergents keep the engine clean. This means no clogged oil screens, no stuck valve lifters, no draggy pistons, no stuck piston rings. B-A's new detergent combination also eliminates oil-induced pre-ignition as well as plug fouling and engine rumble. B-A Durafilm makes your car engine run better, last longer and cost less to operate and maintain.

Easy starting—greater fuel economy. New B-A Durafilm has a very high viscosity index. (Flows easily at extremely low temperatures and does not thin out at extremely high engine operating temperatures.) This means that extreme temperatures have less effect on viscosity than is the case with ordinary oils. This makes your engine start easier and gives you better valve-lifter performance. You will get better gasoline economy, (up to 10% better in city driving). You'll also use less oil and have lower piston ring wear.

B-A Durafilm absorbs contaminants. One of the functions of a motor oil is to "hold" contaminants such as soot, dirt and water and prevent them from depositing in your engine. When too many contaminants get into the oil, it breaks down and releases these contaminants throughout the engine. This clogs the engine with gummy deposits, sludge and rust. When this happens, you're faced with a big repair bill. New B-A Durafilm prevents this.

Two grades of B-A Durafilm. New B-A Durafilm is available in SAE 10W-30 for most driving conditions and SAE 5W-20 for extreme cold. B-A Durafilm Motor Oil is at your B-A dealer's now.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rex Harrison, the overlooked member of the headline-making cast of Cleopatra, and his wife, Rachel Roberts ran off with Academy Award nominations Monday, leaving Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton without Oscar recognition.

Cleopatra won nine nominations in all, including best picture; but was topped by the raucous British comedy Tom Jones which aspires to 10 Oscars. The winners will be named April 13.

BEST ACTRESS

Competing against Miss Roberts for best actress of 1963 are Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room), Shirley Maclaine (Ira la Douce), Patricia Neal (Hud), and Natalie Wood (Love With the Proper Stranger). Miss Roberts was cited for her performance in This Sporting Life.

In addition to Harrison nominees for best actor were Albert Finney (Tom Jones), Richard Harris (This Sporting Life), Paul Newman (Hud), and Sidney Poitier (Lilies of the Field). Cleopatra at more than $400,000 the most expensive movie ever made, was named for best picture of the year along with Lilies of the Field, which was one of the least expensive pictures ever made at $240,000. Other films proposed were Tom Jones, How the West Was Won, and America, America.

Supporting actor nominees were Nick Adams (Twilight of Honor), Bobby Darin (Captain Newman, M.D.), Hugh Griffith (Tom Jones), Melvyn Douglas (Hud) and John Huston (The Cardinal).

SUPPORTING

Listed for best supporting actress were Diane Cilento, Edith Evans and Joyce Redman, all in Tom Jones. The others were Margaret Rutherford (The VIPs), and Lilla Skala (Lilies of the Field).

Picked for best director were Elia Kazan (America, America), Otto Preminger (The Cardinal), Federico Fellini (8½), Martin Ritt (Hud), and Tony Richardson (Tom Jones).

Earlier, the Directors Guild of America named Richardson as 1963's best director.

European Film Falls Short

Even Doris Day Does Better

By IAN STREET

Hollywood is often unfairly criticized for making movies that don't measure up to the European product.

Five-Day Lover, a French-Italian production now showing at the Fox Cinema, is a case in point.

Jean Seberg plays a young English woman married to a French civil servant. They live with their two small children in a modest Paris apartment.

Life is pretty humdrum for Miss Seberg until she picks up a lover. Finally she returns to her long-suffering husband, who tells her she must never be "caged" because she's a free spirit or something.

TOOK HIS ADVICE

What happened next, I'm not sure, but it looked as if she took his advice, went out and picked up a stranger on the street.

The movie is good for a laugh in a few places, but Hollywood is far more adroit at handling this type of salacious comedy. Give me Shirley MacLaine and Jack Lemmon any day. Even Doris Day and Rock Hudson.

Boss Witch Goes To Great Beyond

LONDON (UPI) — A former colonial official who became a mysterious and powerful figure in the bizarre world of British witchcraft has died, it was learned Monday.

Dr. Gerald Brouseau Gardner, 80, died last week aboard a cruise ship off North Africa and was buried in Tunisia, according to reports which reached friends and fellow "witches" here.

WRITE WITCH

Gardner retired from the colonial service in Malaya in 1946, moved to the Isle of Man and began taking an interest in witchcraft.

Within years he was a recognized authority in the black science. He called himself a "white witch"—one who uses his powers for good purposes—wrote books on the subject, and kept a witchcraft museum at his home.

Visitors to his home paid a shilling to see Gardner's collection of bones, charms, "evil eyes" and instruments of torture.

OLD FAITH

Gardner, a doctor of philosophy and doctor of literature, proclaimed witchcraft was "the old faith—older than Christianity."

He toured the witches' covens of England, arbitrating disputes and making himself the unofficial leader of British witchcraft.

Young Boy In Coma At Trail

TRAIL (CP)—A nine-year-old Casino, B.C. boy suffering from sleeping sickness entered a coma Monday and doctors here are fighting to save his life. His identity was not disclosed.

Dr. James McNulty, district medical officer, said Casino, a small village 10 miles south of here, has a horse population of about 35. He said he is trying to determine if the sickness, encephalitis lethargica, had been transmitted to the boy from a horse by means of a flea or other insect.

The doctor said the youngster could have picked up the virus through a small wound in his hand during contact with the horses.

Flu Samples Sent East

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Provincial disease control experts have enlisted federal health department aid in tracking down a mysterious virus which caused a recent heavy outbreak of influenza here.

Dr. Anthony Larsen, epidemiologist with the provincial department of health, said samples had been taken from the flu victims and sent to federal laboratories in Ottawa for study.

Dr. Larsen said the flu bug was not of the same type which caused a major epidemic and wiped out thousands of persons in 1918.

TECO "Golden Jet" Furnace Actually Gives You More Heat at Less Cost!

How is it possible to cut your oil bill while at the same time receive more heat than you would otherwise? TECO has the answer... with a new "Golden Jet" design... your oil bill is actually lower than ever before—because of TECO'S double vortex burner! What's the secret? It's all part of the...

Golden Jet Story

The "Golden Jet" burner is more than just another way to burn oil—it is a whole new advanced concept and offers so many advantages! The Double Vortex action assures the most efficient mixture of oil and air with the resultant economical production of warmth. This action occurs in a stainless steel combustion chamber in which oil and air are mixed, ignited, pre-heated and recirculated for complete combustion resulting in a flame temperature much higher than with existing units. This intensely hot flame is clean, compact, and is directed upward in the heat exchanger to radiate the heat more evenly over the entire heating surfaces and thus achieve a more rapid heat transfer.

Dry Weather, Wind

Saanich Firemen
Called Out
To Brush Fires

Warm, dry weather and wind were blamed for four brush fires on the Saanich Peninsula yesterday afternoon.

A Saanich fire department official said last night the fires started in ferns which had been dried out by the recent dry weather.

HAZARD CREATED

He said in the past few days frost in the evenings had dried grass in the area, creating a fire hazard.

The first fire at 4907 Townsend Drive was reported at 12:30 p.m. and a 300-gallon booster truck made short work of it.

OUT OF HAND

Central Saanich volunteer fire department was called at 1:45 p.m. after wind whipped a fire out of hand near 614 Senanus.

Volunteers were called out again at 3:15 to a grassfire on Wallace Drive near the West Road, which was quickly extinguished.

The fourth fire of the day broke out in the grass near 5164 Old West Road and brought the Saanich fire department on the run. It was out in 16 minutes.

Aged Man
Dies

An 88-year-old man who was struck by a car Feb. 15 died Sunday night in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

John Warriner, 1017 Burdett, was struck by a car driven by Albert Thomson, 3330 Whittier, while crossing Fort Street near Vancouver, but it has not yet been determined whether the injuries in the accident caused his death.

FAIRLY GOOD

He was reported at the time in fairly good condition with shoulder injuries and shock.

Thomson was charged with impaired driving and was fined $500 in city magistrate's court last week.

A long-time city employee, Mr. Warriner had been retired for many years. He is survived by a son in Vancouver.

Love, Not Fear

Clerics Clarify Stand
On Sex Education

Victoria clergymen are not opposed to sex education in schools, but they would prefer to see a program which deals with love rather than fear, and which is taught by qualified teachers.

Such a program should also have the support of parents.

Recently four clergymen, Magr. M. T. O'Connell, Roman Catholic; C. F. Waite, RCN Chaplain; C. Hilary Butler, Anglican; and G. Howard Turpin, United Church, were asked for opinions on a program suggested for experimental purposes in a Victoria school.

After study, the four suggested that it should be deferred for a time and offered their suggestions for a program of sex education.

Trustees acted on the deferment suggestion. Yesterday, the clergymen issued a statement on their opinions. They agreed that more and better sex education is urgently necessary, but they had reservations.

They felt that the proposed course did not place the facts of sex in an ethical context and that it concentrated on fear rather than any ideal of love for acceptable conduct.

CLOSE LIAISON

Sex education in the home is preferred by the ministers who would like to see the closest possible liaison between home and school.

The clergy suggests that a joint commission of school board, clergy and other agencies serving youth might be set up to study the whole question of family life and teen-age mores in Victoria, and satisfactory instruction set up, based on the commission's findings.

Support of parents should be assured, the ministers feel, and qualified teachers should be obtained and the excellence of the material unquestioned.

Because of the delicate nature of sex education, and the fact that it closely touches spiritual life, the clergy feels that the churches and other agencies should be asked to co-operate with the board in providing material and drawing up a scheme which would give due weight to these considerations.

These views were not presented at the school board meeting when officials recommended the deferment but all trustees except chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson and Edward Wood, voted in favor.

MOTHER OF FIVE

Since then Mr. Wood has campaigned for an immediate start for the program and Mrs. Dylla Poole, a mother of five children, is also seeking public support for a petition.

As a result of the public support, Mrs. Thompson has indicated that she would be willing to ask the board to reconsider its decision.

Gordon Head Scheme

New Talks Today
On Hall for Park

Another round of talks will take place today between Saanich lands and planning committee and the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society.

Since June 1963, the Gordon Head group has been seeking Saanich council permission to build a $100,000 community hall-recreation building on municipally-owned parkland.

Recommendations of Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe, brought in during the last committee meeting two weeks ago have been studied by ratepayers who will offer counter-proposals in a meeting at 7:30 p.m. today.

Saanich has to acquire certain land for park purposes anyhow, and stands to gain the building for continued public recreational use after a number of years, society president Ben Anders said last night.

St. David's Day Daffs
To Be Sent to Calgary

Calgary Welshmen are going to realize Saturday that the flowers bloom first in Victoria.

To help Calgary's St. David Society mark the day of Wales' patron saint, St. David, and to publicize Victoria's coming first annual Spring Flower Festival, the tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce plans to fly 40 to 50 dozen daffodils to Calgary for the society's St. David's Day dinner.

NATIONAL FLOWER

Daffodils are the second national flower of the Welsh—the first is the leek.

The flowers will be flown to Calgary, free, by Trans-Canada Air Lines. They will be accompanied by a giant greeting card in both Welsh Gaelic and English.

By IAN STREET

Latest traffic counts show that there has been no lasting drop in south-bound traffic using Government Street as a result of the elimination of the roundabout at Humber Green.

The figures, first to be made public since the new intersection was completed late last fall, show the Government Street southbound traffic peak at a spot just south of Humber Green occurs between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. when there is an average of 850 vehicles an hour.

City hall traffic officials said yesterday this is "slightly better" than the count taken at the same spot at this time in January, 1963.

STRAIGHT THROUGH

Some concern was expressed by city council after the new intersection went into operation over the possibility that Douglas Street as the "straight-through" route would divert much of the traffic which had previously gone by Government.

The January counts, however, show that the south-bound traffic peak on Douglas occurs later, between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m., and only reaches 640 cars an hour compared with the rate of 850 in the previous hour on Government.

HOME-BOUND TRAFFIC

The homeward-bound traffic peak last month reached 1,050 on Douglas Street.

Officials said the increase over 1963 January figures represents normal growth in vehicle registrations in the area. But they point out that the increase in traffic resulting from the opening of Mayfair last fall has been absorbed by Rose Street extension.

13 Schools Involved
In Saanich Referendum

Thirteen schools are involved in the $793,000 school referendum which Saanich School District 63 will be asked to vote on, March 6.

Required are 29 classrooms plus administration areas and a number of offices.

Three small offices are to be added to the school board building.

Allowed in the referendum is $137,500 for new sites and improvements to existing sites.

Cost of equipping the schools and offices is $78,750, and plans, supervision and contingencies will cost $42,750.

Schools affected by the referendum include:

Beaver Lake, administration area; Bradley Dyne, two rooms; Deep Cove, administration area; Prospect Lake area elementary, three rooms; Saanichton area elementary, two rooms; Sayward Road area elementary, four rooms; Sidney elementary, administration; Claremont secondary, four rooms; North Saanich secondary, new administration area; North Saanich annex, four rooms; Mount Newton Junior secondary, two rooms; Mount Newton annex, four rooms; Royal Oak secondary three rooms and alteration to the administration area.

Cost of the rooms is estimated at $534,000.

Tower Top Topic in Oak Bay

Oak Bay councillors met informally—and secretly—last night to discuss what action if any the municipality would take regarding proposed construction of radio transmitters on Trial Island.

Meanwhile, a petition containing 200 names was sent to the Board of Broadcast Governors in Ottawa, protesting the CFAX proposal.

The petition was sponsored by waterfront residents, who say their view of the offshore area will be spoiled if the towers are built.

One of the petition sponsors,

Mrs. E. G. Hart, 287 King George Terrace, says her neighbors were "not entirely selfish," as the view from her area was popular with tourists as well as residents.

"We don't know what good the petition will do," she said last night, "but we felt we had to protest."

She said many residents were fearful the tower construction would be "the thin edge of the wedge," allowing for future commercial development in the area.

"We would like to see this part of the area kept clean," she said last night.

CFAX executives maintain the towers will not spoil the view from Oak Bay, as the island is too far out for them to be seen from shore.

Reeve Cox said last week he did not think his council had any specific jurisdiction in the matter, but there might be some informal discussion among councillors.

BEEN APPROACHED

Other councillors have said they have been approached by residents opposing the move.

regular meetings of the groups last night.

Before the in-camera discussion, he did not comment on the nature of the talks, but said a statement might be forthcoming later this week.

At the earlier works meeting, Coun. William Wade described the tower controversy as "a mess," and while he thought council had no official stake in the matter, it was expected to "go to bat" for the residents.

Coun. Fred Robinson said he could not see how the proposed towers would spoil the panoramic view from Oak Bay.

Urges Women to Vote On Sewage Disposal

Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs was re-elected president of the Victoria Branch of Consumers Association of Canada at the annual meeting in the music room of the Public Library on Monday afternoon. She was installed by Mrs. A. B. Young, provincial president.

Other officers installed were Mrs. G. L. Brown, Mrs. W. E. Rolls and Mrs. R. J. Penman, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. A. Mass, recording secretary; Mrs. John S. Hall, correspondence secretary; Mrs. Gladys Solesby, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Jones, membership. Committee chairmen appointed were Mrs. H. Forrest, publicity; Mrs. G. D. Brown, liaison; Mrs. E. Mills, Mrs.

Penman, Mrs. William Sowlar, consumer problems. The president's annual report showed that a standing committee had been set up to learn more intimately the policy of CAC and the method of dealing with legitimate complaints. Appointed to this committee were Mrs. Penman, Mrs. Sowlar and Mrs. J. A. Carter.

Two other special committees were also named. Mrs. H. J. Solesby was appointed convener of a committee to work on the local association's constitution. Mrs. G. Brown and Mrs. Mass were appointed to convene a committee for the booth at the Jaycee Fair in May.

Mrs. Coombs reported that during the past 12 months the CAC spent a great deal of time representing the consumer point of view to government bodies and specifically studied taxes and gasoline prices.

She said the work still on hand covers such problems as fresh fish, which has been referred to the provincial association. Regarding this question she pointed out that if in any doubt about quality or cleanliness the public should ask for "Canada Approved" which at present is only required for shipment out of the province.

The president urged Victoria householders to vote on the upcoming referendum dealing with the urgent problem of inadequate disposal of sewage in an area which has a rapidly expanding population.

Mrs. Mass in her treasurer's report showed receipts totalled $1,066.70 with $701 being raised from membership fees and an additional $122.92 the proceeds from a fashion show last spring. Disbursements totalled $949.75 from which $150 was forwarded to National Association as a contribution to the expenses in the CAC new testing program.

Human Resources Subject of Talk

Clubs in British Columbia and in the states of Washington and Oregon were represented at the annual international banquet of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in the Empress Hotel ballroom on Saturday evening.

The banquet, held in conjunction with clubs in 27 different countries around the world, marked the growth of the international federation of BPW Clubs, which was organized more than 33 years ago.

Mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster who is also a member of BPW Club, was guest speaker. In her talk on Full Development of Human Resources she stressed the importance of parents teaching their children full values of family life. She also said it is vital that parents be available when their children need them. This, she felt, was the beginning of human resources.

She also emphasized that children should be taught respect for law and order in the home. They should also be taught that all men are born equal no matter what color of skin they have or what religion or creed they follow.

Mrs. Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes were among the special guests at the dinner. Mrs. Enid Webster, first vice-president of Victoria Club, introduced the head table guests.

$150 Made

The UCV of St. Aidan's United Church recently held a successful coffee party and fashion show. Mrs. M. Jacura, president, opened the affair and greeted guests.

Mrs. J. Chambers convened the lunch. Mrs. K. Brown arranged the fashion show and described the hats and costumes modeled by Mrs. F. Ellis, Mrs. R. Watson, Mrs. R. Williston and Mrs. A. Fredericks. Sum of $150 was realized.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Emily McKay and thanked by Miss Ruth Adams, immediate past president.

Miss Margaret Clay, past international vice-president and past national president of Canadian Federation of BPW Clubs, proposed the toast to the international federation.

Miss Elizabeth Forbes, past national vice-president, read a message from the international president, Miss Helen Irwin of Des Moines, Iowa. Greetings were also brought by Mrs. Helen M. Nelson, Washington State president; Miss Eleanor Morley, Canadian national vice-president; and Miss Addie Evans, Penikese, provincial president.

The Varsity Singers, under direction of Rodney Webster, added to the international flavor of the evening.

A coffee party was held later in the Georgian Lounge of the hotel for local and out-of-town club members and their guests. Mrs. McKay was in charge of the evening's arrangements. She was assisted by Miss Elizabeth Clements, Mrs. B. Ward, Mrs. S. Hamill, Mrs. K. Fleming, Mrs. L. Wright and Miss Jean Smith, hostess.

Victoria Club hosted a coffee party in the War Amputations Hall on Sunday morning.

Presiding at the coffee table were Mrs. T. McKinty, Mrs. C. Jahraus, Mrs. T. W. Simpson, Mrs. N. North, Mrs. J. Ingram Smith, Mrs. M. Rust, and the Misses Ella Brett, Flossie Lawrence, Helen Cruickshank, Ruth Adams, Margaret Clay and Elizabeth Forbes.

Mrs. E. Pison was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Ward, Mrs. E. Godkin, Mrs. Jahraus, Mrs. M. Larcombe, Mrs. E. Crerar, Mrs. C. MacLean and the Misses Winnie Ellis, Bernice Harvey, Helen Cruickshank and Marjorie Gibson.

Assisting as serveurs were Mrs. W. Sinclair, Mrs. E. Russell, Mrs. C. Warlow, Mrs. T. Main, Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. L. Wright and the Misses Emily Warburton, Kate Robertson, Jean McQueen, Virginia Ross, Vicki Rusk, Beth Parker and Jean Smith.

This blue-and-white floor, with its charming, provincial design, sets the style for a distinctive family room. From the flooring comes the solid blue tone for the walls. The blues take on a friendly warmth when used with orange and red upholstered pieces. This combination proves that colors can be used with their close neighbors on the color wheel or with colors from the opposite side of the wheel. Smart patterns are available in both hard-surface floorings and in practical area rugs. Either type of floor covering can be the successful start for a decorating scheme in any room of the house.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a sociology major in our state university. My fiancé is getting a degree in business administration. We will both graduate in June and we plan to be married in July.

Larry's father is a highly successful businessman. Although he built a financial empire he has not taken a vacation since 1952. Larry's father still puts in 12 hours a day at his office in spite of an ulcer operation and a coronary.

Last night Larry gave me some shocking news. He said that years of observing his father has persuaded him that wealth does not bring contentment or fulfillment. He wants no part of the sweat, blood and agony of business, Larry announced that he is going to be a postman.

He outlined the benefits of a civil service job—no pressure, lots of fresh air and walking, a good position, and plenty of time for reading and contemplating.

At first I thought he was out of his mind. Now I am not sure. What do you think of a college graduate who would settle for a career as a postman?—PICK-A-DILLY.

Dear Dill: To each his zone.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I read your advice to the wife who said she felt like an "unpaid housekeeper."

The woman described her spotless home, beautiful meals—and she even shined her husband's shoes. Yet he showed no appreciation whatever. Your reply was interesting. You said "A man doesn't love a woman because she's a fine cook, an expert housekeeper or a first-rate shoeshine girl—he can hire those services." You added, "the woman who can make her husband feel that he is her hero has it made."

I would give anything in the world if I could do just that. How does a woman make her husband feel like "her hero?" Please answer in the paper. I could use the advice, and I know others who could use it, as well.—ALSO UNAPPRECIATED.

Dear Also: How did you treat the fellows you dated when you wanted to make a wonderful impression? Test your memory, Kiddo, and replay the tape.

You laughed at his jokes, built him up when he was special and important. You treated him with courtesy and respect, and you waited until you were alone if you had some criticism you just had to get out.

A successful marriage is not a gift, it is an achievement. The effort and energy that a woman may put into her marriage is like money in the bank. It begets interest in the form of strength, confidence and stability. When the going gets rough you have something to draw from.

A marriage licence is not a guarantee that the marriage is going to work, any more than a fishing licence assures you that you'll catch fish. It merely gives you the legal right to try.

Couple Exchange Rings

Miss Joan Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Todd, 444 Constance Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Derek George Fendt, son of Mrs. M. A. Fendt, 1039 Cook Street, at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church.

Rev. J. A. Roberts performed the double-ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length empire-styled gown of white chiffon velvet with matching velvet jacket. A crown of white roses held her shoulder-length veil of illusion net. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis.

Miss Joan Todd as her sister's bridesmaid was in a ballerina-length gown of pink organza over taffeta. Pink and white roses and white veiling formed her headpiece. White stephanotis were in her bouquet.

Mr. Bob Hunter was best man. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fendt left for a honeymoon on the mainland. For travelling the bride wore a logan green tuxedo suit with black accessories.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will cross to Vancouver today, where they will attend the annual Red Cross meeting and luncheon. His Honor will open the annual meeting and present Red Cross awards.

On Wednesday the Lieutenant-Governor will open the 13th British Columbia Natural Resources Conference in the Empress Hotel.

For Valerie Taylor

The Misses Diane and Kathy Schmelz were co-hostesses recently at a miscellaneous shower in honor of bride-elect, Miss Valera Wyn Taylor. A corsage of white orchids was presented to the bride-to-be, and carnation corsages to Mrs. Gar Taylor, mother of the bride and Mrs. K. Schmelz, grandmother of the groom. A heart-shaped shower cake, red candles and red roses were used as decoration in the Valentine theme. Gifts were presented in a red and white basket.

Those attending were Mrs. H. McDougall, Mrs. F. Clark, Mrs. T. Floor, Mrs. R. Macmurchie, Mrs. H. Hackwell, Mrs. B. Peterson, Mrs. L. Johns, Mrs. L. Schmelz, Mrs. H. Payne, Mrs. G. Riviere and the Misses Coby Floor, Barbara Ford, Ann Simpson, Dorothy Gaetz, Jill Payne, Janet Johns, Sharon Roberts, Vicki Rigby and Carrie Schmelz.

Wedding March 13

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Olson, 667 Beaver Lake Road, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Linda Mary to Mr. Gary J. Le Boutillier, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Le Boutillier, 776 Oliver Street. The wedding will take place on Friday, March 13 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Saviour's Church.

Married at First Baptist

The marriage of Peenie Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dawson, 3637 Harriet Road, and Mr. Robert Arthur Armstrong, 921 Pandora Avenue, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Armstrong, Embro, Ont., took place on Feb. 15 in First Baptist Church. Rev. John Watson performed the ceremony.

AMY By Mace and Tippit

"Mom sent me up to see if you needed any help."

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McAdam, 3333 Cook Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Beverley-Gail, to Mr. Ronald James Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Brown, 1637 Richardson Street.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 28, at 8 p.m. in First United Church with Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiating. — (Chapman photography)

Hosoon-Young

Bride Carries Roses

Belmont United Church was the setting for the recent marriage of Diana Ralston Young and Mr. William George Hosoon. Rev. Dr. R. B. Sparling performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hambley, 2723 Scott Street, and the son of Mr.

and Mrs. H. Hosoon, 2746 Scott Street.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white taffeta. Her full skirt fell into a slight train from a back bustle, enhanced with white ribbon flowers trailing down the skirt. Pearl tiara caught her shoulder-length veil of illusion net and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Gordon Schoor, matron of honor, and Miss Darlene Young, bride's sister, and Miss Sandra Begg as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in turquoise blue brocade frocks styled with belted skirts and scooped necklines. They wore matching bow and net headpieces and carried pink carnations.

Misses Cheryl Hosoon and Denise Young, bride's sister, as junior bridesmaids, wore in pink brocade frocks with matching hats. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Albert Hosoon was his brother's best man. Mr. Douglas R. Young of Trail, the bride's brother, and Mr. Schoor were ushers.

For a honeymoon trip to California and Mexico the bride changed to a turquoise blue wool walking suit with pink and black accessories. A corsage of pink roses completed her ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosoon are now making their home at 1063 Chamberlain Street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cox, bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Grognet, bride's uncle and aunt, and Mrs. A. Rook, all of North Vancouver, were among the out-of-town guests.

Living Cost Up

MONTREAL (CP) — The cost of food in the Montreal area has risen 36 per cent more than the general cost of living index during the last three years, says a Dominion Bureau of Statistics report. The average Montreal housewife spends $1.22 per day on food for each member of her family.

Sun Valley Trip For Newlyweds

An exquisite street-length gown of silk peau-faille was worn by Colleen Elspeth Lang recently when she exchanged marriage vows with Joseph Ronald Kornitsky.

The waist was enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace. Soft folds of the overskirt swept into back fullness emphasizing the slender bodice.

Her four-tier silk illusion veil misted to shoulder-length from a tiara of pearls and lace. Pink epaes and white carnations were in her crescent-shaped bouquet.

Dr. N. S. Noel officiated at the double-ring ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lang, 3278 Henderson Road, and the son of Mrs. Ida Kornitsky, Vernon.

St. George the Martyr Church was decorated with spring blossoms for the ceremony.

Only attendant, Miss Roberta Lang, sister of the bride, wore a gown of azure blue velvet with matching whimsie. White and blue carnations were in her bouquet.

Best man was Paul Anderson and guests were ushered to their pews by George Innis and Owen Paramchuck.

At a reception which followed in Holyrood House, the bride's table was centred with a wedding cake decorated with silver leaves and wedding bells, flanked by pink rosebuds in silver vases. Decor was completed with pink roses and white stocks. Rod Matheson proposed the toast.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley ski resort, the bride wore a white wool lace two-piece suit with turquoise accessories and oatmeal tweed top coat with fox fur cuffs. A corsage of deep red roses completed the ensemble.

The couple will make their home in Vernon.

Fruit Tree Pruning For Public

FULFORD—South Salt Spring Women's Institute, meeting in the newly finished room at Fulford Community Hall, heard Mrs. A. Davis, agricultural convener, outline plans for a public demonstration of fruit tree pruning by Dr. A. E. Litter, department of agriculture. It will be held on Feb. 26 at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Isabella Point Road gardens of Mrs. Davis and Miss V. Sallis, respectively.

Cultural convener, Miss Sallis, reported the group studying "Indians of B.C." meets Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in her home.

Mrs. V. Grant, United Nations convener, reported a shipment of clothing ready for Unitarian Services Committee. The meeting voted a donation toward cost of shipping books for women and children to Cocos Island.

Citizenship convener Mrs. M. Gyles reported good progress made on road safety improvements. Blind spots on Fulford Hill and Isabella Point Road are to be eliminated.

Following the meeting, which was chaired by Mrs. D. L. Singsby, tea was served by Mrs. Davis and Miss G. C. Hamilton. Next meeting to be held March 12 at 2 p.m. in Fulford Hall.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FBEY

The ability to win the last round of trumpets can be as important as winning the last battle of a war. The player who does this can, to some extent, command the future course of play. This is broadly what is meant by "trump control."

Supporting partner can be an admirable action, but it is not as unexceptional a virtue as supporting the local community chest. Sometimes it is better to stress the claims of one's own suit.

North's light opening was justified by his fine club suit. Over his partner's two spade force, North should have rebid that suit rather than show sketchy spade support. Then South would have shown diamonds and North could have closed the bidding with an unassailable three no trump.

Playing in the less secure contract of four spades, South won the diamond opening and took three top trumps before sensing danger. He switched to clubs, but the contract was beyond rescue; West ruffed the third club and declarer finished with two.

South should have made sure of being able to win the last round of trump. He could have done this by leading a small trump away from the ace, king and queen at trick two. Nothing the defenders could do then could harm him so long as trumps were no worse than 4-2. Ironically, West would have ducked the lead and declarer would have made 11 tricks.

Drumstick Primrose

By M. V. CHESNUT, F.R.S.

Any gardener who has mastered the technique of growing good specimens of polyanthus primrose should have a go at Primula denticulata, the Drumstick primrose. This Asiatic primula from the Himalayas isn't any more difficult to grow but it is quite distinctive and decidedly different from the polyanthus.

The plant gets its common name, the drumstick primrose, from its rounded heads of flowers on stout stems nine to 15 inches long, looking for all the world like those sticks used for whacking a big bass drum. The leaves and stems are usually covered with a floury meal, often mistaken for mildew by inexperienced gardeners.

The typical plant has lilac-mauve or pale purple flowers with a yellow eye, but there is a pure white form and several very beautiful named varieties. Spring Maid is a clear pink shade. Purple Beauty, in spite of its name, is more of a violet than purple. Hay's Variety is a very fine flower in dark maroon, while Starmonth Red has bright rosy crimson blooms.

Most of these start flowering in April, although in mild years I have had the odd bloom open before the end of February.

These named varieties, of course, must be purchased as plants or scrounged from your neighbor when he is lifting and dividing his clumps of plants in the fall. They can also be propagated from root cuttings and it isn't much of a job to work up a really good stock of plants from a few well-chosen specimens. One nursery catalogue in my collection lists the type plant at 50 cents each; named varieties would probably run a bit higher.

Primula denticulata is quite easy to grow from seed, although, of course, you never know just what color the flowers will be when the parents are unknown. This flower is exceptionally popular with the bees—it must secrete a particularly sweet nectar to bring them around in such swarms—hence the papa plant which provided the male pollen for the seeds might be several gardens away from yours.

This element of chance in the growing of drumsticks from seed makes the venture all the more exciting, for you never know when you may come up with an entirely new combination of colors. The seeds are not easy to come by in this country—most certainly you won't find them in the seed racks of the corner store—but seedsmen stocking English seeds may have them, or you can always send directly to an Old Country firm.

While not strictly necessary with reasonably fresh seed, I think it pays to stick them in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator for a week before sowing. Then sow very thinly in pots of rather sandy soil, covering them with a quarter-inch layer of peat moss. Strong young seedlings should appear within two weeks and these may be planted out in the garden in late spring.

The subsequent treatment is about the same as for polyanthus, except that the drumsticks need a bit more water and must never be allowed to go dry through the summer months. While its preference is for a damp, rich, loamy soil with quite a bit of leafmould in it, I have seen drumsticks growing in heavy clay soil and doing very nicely indeed.

JOHN CROSBY Spots Change in Show Biz

Amateurs Drive Out Pros

LONDON—Three show biz items last week that I find of consuming pertinence. In London, Henry Sherck, one of England's most successful theatrical producers (110 West End plays), announced he's quitting. "The theatre has become a bore," he said, complaining he was out of tune.

In New York, Walter Kerr, critic of the New York Herald Tribune, reports that some of the early hit plays in what looked to be a rather promising theatrical season have already closed. This is the year, he says, in which even the successes are flops.

Also in New York, Leopold Stokowski asks a bunch of teen-agers to make a question that has puzzled the older generation a lot: "How do you know what you like about the Beatles when you always screech so much that neither you nor anybody else can hear them?"

Each of these different groans is inter-related. The relationship between performers and audience has changed so enormously that it is shattering old show business concepts and it's going to shatter a lot more old show business entrepreneurs like Mr. Sherck unless they learn to understand it.

When Leopold Stokowski asks teen-agers why they enjoy music they can't hear, he doesn't realize that the audience is not only hearing it in their inner ear (they've heard the records) but taking part in it.

Participation is one of the great assets of the Beatles, but it's stronger than that really. The members of the audience become one of the Beatles almost.

In the '30s and the '40s when the kids stood around the bandstand listening (they didn't dance; they listened) to Benny Goodman and the other great name bands, they were paying reverence to a very great professional heading a whole group of very great professionals.

The separation between audience and performer was almost the difference between species.

But the Beatles are just one step away from amateurism in the very best sense. Most of their audience can play guitars and sing too, and can dance, too. This is the great age of participation.

The Beatles have a sort of native genius; they spring into prominence overnight right out of the audience and they can disappear tomorrow. (Already other Liverpool groups are topping their records in England.)

It's getting hard to tell the players from the crowd. In Paris, I went to see the Ballets Africains from Guinea, all those flashing black bodies dancing to their marvelously mathematical rhythms.

But in Guinea, these were amateurs dancing with native exuberance at a party. In Paris, they lit it, choreographed it, costumed it, put it in a huge, half-empty theatre where there was a great wall of separation between the audience and the performers and half the fun went out of it.

Two things are at work here. The professionals are getting more amateur. And the amateurs—this is the crux of the matter, Stokowski—are getting more professional.

In St. Moritz, I watched a chick on a nightclub floor (very rich chick) doing her own version of the shake. One-half of her body was doing a rhythm that those African dancers would envy. The other half of her body was motionless. Brilliant. On a stage properly lit, it would stop a show. But she's a paying guest.

Then I turn on British television where dancing reaches depths of professional mediocrity that is painful to watch. In this respect the amateurs are not only better than the professionals in performance by light-years ahead of them in what they're performing—more with it, more hip, more up-to-date.

Or you take a group like Beyond the Fringe. Four amateurs from Oxford and Cambridge, hardly amateurs any more, but they sprang onto a stage before professionalism had dulled them. TW3, the BBC TV show here, was staffed by amateurs and it was popular because they knew and were one with their audience, especially the young audience.

I had a letter from a friend in New York the other day who sees a lot of New York first nights and commented that he and the critics seemed to be at different plays.

Well, the New York critics are a very tightly-knit, homogeneous, professional, and, I'm afraid, older group. They don't even see the same thing on the stage as their own age group.

Between themselves and the young there is no communication at all, which may be one reason the young don't go to the theatre any more in New York.

CARROLL BAKER

The World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Film Sickness Audience

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—"Revolt!" "Nauseating!" were two of the milder epithets yelled by the audience at the end of the Paramount preview of Lady in a Cage. But I doubt whether the Paramount people will shelve the film, as I heard they might. Olivia de Havilland in a wheelchair is thrown down a flight of stairs. Ann Sothern is beaten up and, for good measure, she is tossed down the staircase. People's eyes are gouged out, and the picture opens with a dog bleeding to death. This is entertainment?

Shelley Winters has given up the idea of running for the U.S. Congress. "I can't afford it," she confides.

Shelley earns more than the president of the United States. . . . Most of Carroll Baker's sexy stuff has been eliminated from The Carpetbaggers. Ditto for Elizabeth Ashley. It was too much of too little.

Henry Fonda takes off his shirt in The Best Man, and no man who will be 60 next birthday should look that gorgeous. And whatever happened to his expected marriage with the pretty airline hostess?

Narah Miles, so good in The Servant, is the girl who will play Elizabeth Ashley's role on the London stage in Barfoot in the Park. Liz took Albert Finney prior to his flight to Mexico—to all the best places in Greenwich Village. And if it weren't for being so much in love with George Peppard, she could be in love with Albert. . . . Liz is not yet divorced from Jimmy Farentino. But she will be. He wants to marry Michele Lee. Peppard wants to marry Liz. And it's all beginning to sound like marital musical chairs.

Paramount is after the autobiography of Melvin Belli, lawyer for accused assassin Jack Ruby. And unofficially, Belli would like one of these three stars to play him on the screen: Kirk Douglas, Burt Lancaster, or Tony Curtis.

Joan Fontaine will be cutting her honeymoon with Alfred Wright a little bit short. She has a lawsuit pending in Beverly Hills against the contractors of her apartment building. Joan claims, among other horrors, that when it rains, her living room furniture and carpets get soaked. Joan has had some tough court battles. At least Joan won't have to fight this one alone.

I was not too surprised when Cesar Romero and Elizabeth Allen decided to stop thinking about marriage. There is a big age difference, and besides I doubt whether Cesar has ever really wanted to be married. He was in love with someone very early in life, but no one since. As well, he is a marvellous dancer and a marvellous escort, and he has a marvellous time without any of the responsibility of a wife.

Mama Dora is linked with one Hollywood male after another, but her real romance is said to be Australian singer Darryl Stewart.

Chevalier to Marry —The Eiffel Tower!

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Maurice Chevalier is going to get married again in May—to the Eiffel Tower.

"The Eiffel Tower and I both came to Paris the same year. Someone in the city of Paris thinks that we both represent the city to the world—so they are going to marry us to celebrate the tower's 75th anniversary—and also mine."

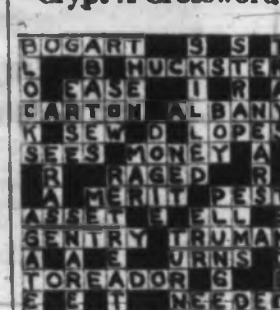

He was asked if President Charles de Gaulle would perform the ceremony.

"Mais non," answered Maurice. "He's taller than both of us."

Maurice recently completed a role in I'd Rather Be Rich with Sandra Dee, Robert Goulet and Amy Williams.

After the May wedding ceremony, he will break in a new one-man concert tour in Sweden and then play the United States.

'Chute Didn't Open

Pilot Frightened 'If I Had Known'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Capt. Edward A. Dickson, a navy pilot from Wyoming, Pa., is in hospital recuperating from a broken right leg—the only major injury he suffered after falling 1,000 feet from his disabled A-4 Skyhawk jet with a parachute that wouldn't open.

The plunge Thursday, at an estimated 120 miles an hour, ended in a deep snow drift. Only when the 26-year-old flyer bounced 50 feet in the air, skidded along the snow and slammed into a pine tree did he realize something had gone wrong.

"As I turned," he said, "I noticed the parachute was still strapped to my back, still in its pack."

"I thought, 'the damn thing didn't open.'"

"Who knows what a 'chute is supposed to feel like? To me, this was the normal reaction. I'd never bailed out before."

"If I'd known, it might've scared the hell out of me."

VANCOUVER (CP)—A youth who rolled 1,000 feet down a snow-covered slope and spent the night in the open in below-freezing temperatures said Monday the experience hadn't put him off mountain climbing.

Fred Douglas, 19, of Coquitlam, spent the night trapped in an icy gorge at the 2,500-foot level of Blanchard Mountain, 25 miles east of here in Garibaldi Provincial Park.

A rescue team reached the youth Monday and an air force helicopter picked him up and flew him directly to General Hospital here.

"It all happened so fast I didn't have time to think," he said in his hospital bed.

"I had been taking photographs. I took a couple of steps to get a better view of a promising looking scene and the snow just seemed to give way."

"Then I just went sliding down faster and faster. At first the snow was hard and icy, then it got softer."

"I knew I was cut and bleeding but I didn't feel as if I had broken any bones."

Douglas said he reckoned he had fallen between 500 and 1,000 feet when he stopped in a pile of soft snow.

"Then I thought of my two buddies and told them to go and get help. I didn't figure they could do much to help me right then."

The youth then dug a shelter in a bank of snow under some trees and made himself comfortable for the night. He said he wasn't too cold.

WARM CLOTHING

He was wearing hiking boots and warm clothing when he fell. He suffered only abrasions and exposure and is in good condition in hospital.

The youth and his companions had camped on the mountain Saturday night and were on their way home Sunday when the accident occurred.

Questioned Drug Off the Market

OTTAWA (UPI)—The anti-depression drug—Parnate—is expected to be voluntarily withdrawn from sale in Canada today, following similar action in the U.S., Dr. C. A. Morrell of the Food and Drug Directorate, said Monday.

He said after a two-hour meeting on the question the company, Smith, Kline and French of Philadelphia, was considering the mechanics of halting the sales in Canada.

OFF THE MARKET

"They will remove it from the market tomorrow," he said.

The company, which has a plant in Montreal, also took voluntary action in the United States after learning the U.S. Food and Drug Administration intended to take action.

Parnate has been associated with 15 deaths, including six in the U.S., as well as high blood pressure, severe headaches and strokes.

Morrell said it had been sold in Canada since "late in 1960" and the FDD had no specific information of reactions in this country because it was all "lumped in" with the U.S. report.

Cats Kill Family

TRIESTE (AP)—A husband and wife and their 18-year-old son were found dead Monday in a gas-fume-filled apartment here—and police blamed the family's two cats.

The cats, playing in the kitchen during the night, apparently detached the rubber gas tube from the stove.

Priests Play Dead In Midst of Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Two Quebec priests wounded by terrorists using bows and arrows said Monday they played dead for more than two hours with rebels swarming all around them during an attack on their Kwilu Province mission Saturday.

The two priests were Rev. Raymond Bussiere, 25, of Drummondville, and Rev. Guy Jean Brunneau, 41, of Magog. Their mission was overrun by hordes who killed two Belgians.

BLEEDING HEAVILY
"We were both bleeding heavily and were very weak," Father Bussiere said. "There we lay on the floor for more than two hours, while the rebels were swarming around us."

"One of the Belgian Jesuit brothers had escaped to the refectory, too, and was hiding behind our cinema screen. They never found him. We did not know how long we had to stay there and we did not dare bandage our wounds, for rebels were all around."

HEARD CONFESSION
"The Jesuit father there heard our whispered confession and gave us absolution while the terrorists were looting and screaming around us." Father Bussiere suffered a deep arrow wound in his left arm. Father Brunneau was wounded in an arm and hand.

They and 15 other Canadian and Belgian priests and teachers were flown out of the terror-stricken province Sunday after Canadian Brig. Jacques Alfred Dextraze of Montreal, buzzed the mission with his helicopter and scared away about 60 rebels.

TEACHERS KILLED
Father Bussiere said he tried to flee when a group of rebels forced several of the missionaries to kneel in their station building. One of the rebels shot and killed Belgian teacher Robert Marchal, 24.

"They did not give any warning, just killed him like that," he said. Another witness said the rebels used a "pou pou," a home-made muzzle-loading rifle stuffed with lead and nails.

Continent-Wide Police Alert

WHERE'S HEATHMAN?

By TERRY HAMMOND

Confessed child-slayer Charles Heathman has broken parole and vanished.

Provincial officials confirmed his disappearance yesterday and said a continent-wide police alert has been sounded.

Heathman, twice sentenced to the gallows for the 1962 sex-slaying of Vernon newsboy Donald Ottley and later freed by the B.C. Court of Appeal, dropped out of sight early last Wednesday.

He had been staying with a sponsor to which he had been paroled from Escondale Mental Hospital.

Authorities said yesterday the sponsor immediately notified them and that a "search and locate" order went out to RCMP.

U.S. POLICE NOTIFIED
U.S. police notified the FBI, were brought in on the theory he might be headed for the border.

An official yesterday thought he might have headed for Nevada, where he had a lengthy criminal record before coming to B.C.

LESS THAN A MONTH
His disappearance from the Lower Mainland home of his sponsor came less than a month after he was paroled. Authorities said yesterday that breaking a Mental Hospital Act parole is not a crime.

Were police under orders to arrest him if they discovered his whereabouts?

Mayor Will Ignore What People Think

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Mayor Arthur Holland said Monday he has bought a house in a rundown Negro neighborhood and will move in Friday. He said the only thing that worries him is that people will think he is a crackpot.

"You know the reaction of some people," he explained. "The average person thinks he's nuts or that he likes the Negro or Puerto Rican better than us."

"Or they say he will move in for awhile, just long enough to keep his promise, and then he will move out again" or "He's going to do it for speculation and if it catches on he will make a lot of money out of it."

But Holland, the first mayor under this state capital city's mayor-city council form of government, said the reason he and his pretty wife purchased their new home was because they wanted something that would lend itself to early American remodeling.

Then, too, he said, he believes that it may set an example for other people and attract whites back to the neighborhood.

No Firing Of Seamen

From Dead Man Hand for Sailor

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Boston surgeons said last night a 28-year-old Ecuadorian sailor who was given the forearm and hand of a dead man after the historic operation in Guayaquil, Ecuador, said his new hand is "excellent."

Dr. Richard Wilson and Dr. Robert Goldwyn, reporting on the sailor's condition 10 days after the historic operation in Guayaquil, Ecuador, said his new hand is "completely viable."

Dr. Wilson and Dr. Goldwyn, both associate surgeons at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, left, flew to Guayaquil last week to advise on post-operative care for the patient. They returned to Boston Sunday.

Rescue Tries Heroic

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — U.S. Coast Guardmen jumped time and again into the stormy Atlantic to rescue crewmen of a sinking British freighter. It was disclosed yesterday with the arrival of the 11 survivors of the vessel.

One of the Coast Guardmen whose wife gave birth to their first child while he was risking his life, will be recommended for the Coast Guard Life Saving Medal, the service's highest honor.

The surviving crewmen of the wheat-laden British freighter Ambassador told how they battled heavy seas after abandoning ship Tuesday.

Mr. K Sees End to War

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has declared that "for the first time in history mankind is in a position to prevent war altogether," usually reliable sources reported here Monday.

Never Say Die

CHELMSFORD, England (CP) — Non-swimmer Ann Pinkham plans to swim the English Channel in August. She is being trained by Londoner Wilfred Westley, who has failed the swim nine times.

Develop or Get Out Edict Urged for Firm

By TERRY HAMMOND

The B.C. government was told yesterday it should deliver an ultimatum to the Tahsis Company — develop its Vancouver Island tree farm licence properly or lose it.

John Squire (NDP — Alberni) told the legislature that the firm, a subsidiary of the East Asiatic Company, is not living up to its development commitments, that it is wasteful, that it is running "company towns" and thwarting community development.

He said the company was granted a tree farm licence covering part of Central Vancouver Island and the West Coast on the basis of an announcement that it would build a pulp mill somewhere between Metchosin and Zeballos. In the past seven or eight years the company had made further pulp mill announcements, but nothing ever came of them.

"They used this in seeking public support," Mr. Squire said. People touring the company's operations had been "appalled at what was left on the forest floor."

The proposed pulp mill and other company installations were to have benefited the area of the tree farm licence both industrially and socially, the Alberni member said.

SOCIAL BENEFITS
But not all of the industrial benefits and none of the social benefits had materialized.

"Only the sawmill has improved and the logging extended," said Mr. Squire.

"Full harvest is not being made in the woods operations." He claimed 2,500 people in the tree farm licence area were without access to public highways and that the 1,500 residents of the community of Tahsis couldn't even buy land or their own homes.

"Not one person owns anything but the furniture in their own homes—it's a darn poor deal."

Probers Accuse Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigating committee of the Organization of American States said Monday Communists Cuba sought to overthrow the government of Venezuela and also paid for and directed similar activities in other Latin American countries.

The committee did not make any recommendations but spokesmen for various countries urged hemisphere nations take prompt action against Cuba.

Venezuela ambassador Enrique Tejera Paris, expressed dismay that "certain countries are planning to open trade with Cuba. The time is running short when such countries must choose... whether they want to do business with Cuba or with Venezuela."

Cadets' Boltless Rifles Seized at Bayonet-Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Exclusive Ashbury College for boys in suburban Rockcliffe was turning Monday after a weekend visit from the army to collect cadet corps rifles.

With fixed bayonets, the army unit swooped down on Ashbury at 12:30 a.m. Saturday to carry out Defence Minister Hellyer's order removing small arms from militia establishments in "sensitive areas" because of raids on three Quebec armories.

The school said that among weapons removed were 130 boltless First World War Rifles which hadn't been fired since 1918.

Quivering with indignation, Commodore W. G. Ross, chairman of the board of governors of Ashbury, said in an interview:

"It's a pretty ridiculous piece of work to come into a private school in the middle of the night and disturb the school and its borders."

"It seems totally unnecessary for these soldiers to march through Ashbury with fixed bayonets and loaded rifles. We'll take this matter up with the army and the minister of national defence."

"How are we expected to train a cadet corps without any equipment?"

Ahousat:

One House in 30 Years

Alberni MLA John Squire told the legislature yesterday the most appalling living conditions he has ever seen exist at the Indian village of Ahousat off Vancouver Island's west coast. He demanded the government institute a pilot program for the Indians there similar to steps taken in recent years in Manitoba.

At the Ahousat village only six individuals are gainfully employed out of a population of 680 people, he charged.

There is no adequate means of communication with Vancouver Island points and, in spite of a rapidly growing population, there has only been one new home built there in the past 30 years.

Conditions in the homes are so bad that children attending school aren't allowed to take books home or study for fear they will be destroyed.

The island on which the village is located is dominated by a tree farm licence but there is no cutting program to provide employment.

Mr. Squire charged B.C. "is 10 miles and 100 years" behind the rest of Canada in caring for its Indian population.

A special award for teamwork was given to Mary Lynn Hearney and Judy Braithwaite for Lady Catherine and Lady Margaret in The Three Wishing Bells, produced by the Duncan Elementary School under the direction of N. W. Campbell, drama festival chairman.

The same play was one of the four chosen for the Saturday night honor performance.

The other three plays were: The Stolen Prince by Queen Margaret's School, directed by Miss Nora Denny; The Emperor's Nightingale by Strathcona Lodge School directed by Mrs. A. Henderson, and In the Zone, by Brentwood College, directed by T. G. Bunch.

Near Rescue Delays Ferry

NANAIMO (CP)—The ferry Queen of Vancouver was 20 minutes late arriving at Horseshoe Bay in West Vancouver on one of its Sunday night sailings when it went to the aid of a small boat in distress.

By the time the ferry arrived at the stricken craft, off Entrance Island near here, a flaboot was towing the pleasure boat to safety.

New Name

NANAIMO — Woodlands secondary school, Nanaimo, is known locally just as "Woodlands," so is the Woodlands school for retarded children at New Westminster.

Nanaimo Woodlands will have its name changed this year, if its school board chairman Joe Shook has his way. He told school trustees last week that it should be changed immediately. The board is considering the matter.

Measles Kills 26

ISTANBUL (AP)—Twenty-six children have died from an outbreak of measles in Turkey's Adana province.

Chase in Port Alberni Fog Leads to Arrest of Pair

PORT ALBERNI — Allan W. Joseph was remanded in custody until March 2 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a downtown garage here early Sunday morning.

He was charged with entering Woodward's garage and stealing a tire and rim, along with rubber floor mats.

Police told of chasing a car through the south end of the city and along Franklin River Road, and of making the arrest when the vehicle went off the road.

PROBATION

Joseph pleaded guilty also as a minor in possession of beer, and to throwing beer bottles, tire and rim on a highway. Magistrate W. E. MacLeod asked for a probation officer's report before sentence is passed.

According to RCMP, Joseph kicked the glass from the door of the garage to gain entry.

Terrence Roy McIntosh, charged with breaking and entering in connection with the

sureties and the preliminary hearing was set for March 3 on

charge.

He pleaded guilty to a dan-

police told of the chase through the fog on city streets while the accused turned through five signs before turning onto the Franklin River Road. After coming close to leaving the road on several occasions, the car went into a ditch approximately three miles south of the city.

McIntosh was fined $250 and given time to pay.

Bail was set at $2,000 with two

Nanaimo Appeal Meeting Tonight

NANAIMO — Annual meeting of Nanaimo United Appeal will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Eagles' Hall.

Reports will be given of the 1963 campaign by President Mladen Zorkin and campaign chairman Mega McDougall.

Jack M. Anguish, executive director of the Community Welfare Council of the Greater Victoria area is to be guest speaker.

Seven new directors are to be elected to bring the required total on the board up to the required number of 26.

There are 21 elected and five appointed members of the board. One third of the board is elected each year for a three-year period.

Firms Help Build New Pool

NANAIMO — More than 700 yards of gravel were used Saturday to level off the ground surrounding the new Kinamen's swimming pool now under construction in Bowen Park.

Truck owners and drivers give their services without charge.

Loading equipment were Gowen Monley, George Wilkinson, Reg Dorman Trucking, Fred Barr, W. M. Aquire and Son, George Baird, Island Excavating and Stan Jewula Trucking.

Drivers were Doug Lewis, Bill Squire, Jim Wallace, Alf Simpson, Art Squire, John Geary and Stan Jewula.

Island Courts

NANAIMO — Denton Robert Allen, Nanaimo, was convicted in police court Monday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 15 days in Oakalla.

Allen was also prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada until July 2, 1964.

The charge arose when a Nanaimo taxi-driver called police after seeing a car smash into a parking meter about 1:45 a.m.

DUNCAN — Police court: Christina Lana Poland, Duncan, speeding, $22; Jacobus L. Vandenberg, Duncan, failing to stop at stop sign, $17; Auke Elzinga, Duncan, speeding, $30 and 30-day driver's license suspension; Grewal Baldev Singh, Duncan, speeding, $35; Fred Smith, disobeying stop sign, $15; Ernest W. Mawie, Duncan, failing to remain at scene of accident, $100.

Alberni

Friends Rally To Help Out Fire Victims

ALBERNI—Friends and neighbors met Monday night to organize community aid for the family of a multiple sclerosis victim whose home was struck by fire Saturday afternoon.

Damage was estimated at $8,500 to the home and household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cooper, Nanaimo Highway, in the flash fire blamed on a leak in a propane gas line.

ON SCENE

Cherry Creek volunteer firemen were on the scene within 4½ minutes of receiving a call from neighbor Mrs. Bill Johnson. They applied artificial respiration and revived two of the three small dogs which were overcome by smoke in the blaze.

AT STORE

Mr. Cooper, who is confined to a wheelchair, operates a consignment sales business in Remploy Handicapped Centre. He and Mrs. Cooper were at the store in Port Alberni when the fire broke out in mid-afternoon.

None of the family was at home. Besides two grown children, the Coopers have an 8-year-old daughter and 11-year-old son.

The family spent the weekend at the home of the couple's married son, Robert, at Sprout Lake.

FIND ACCOMMODATION

Red Cross

Ceremony To Open Drive

DUNCAN — The March Red Cross campaign in the Cowichan Valley will be started with a flag-raising ceremony at the Duncan Cenotaph next Monday at 10 a.m.

Dignitaries expected to attend will be: Cowichan Branch Red Cross president Mrs. Jane Fall, North Cowichan councillor Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn, Duncan city Mayor Jack Dobson, North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton, and this year's Red Cross campaign chairman Harold Whitfield.

Gang That Sang in 30s Enough to Fill Hall

The gang that sang around the bonfire on the beach at Cadboro Bay in the 30s has completely booked out the Club Soho in the Shelbourne Plaza for a get-together Saturday.

More than 100 couples—some from Vancouver, Kamloops and Seattle—phoned Ken Stofor, 1619 Christmas Street, when he announced his idea of rounding up his old buddies of 30 years ago. "Now the club is completely booked and we have a waiting list of 14 people who are hoping for cancellations," said Mr. Stofor yesterday. "It's going to be a great reunion. There will be dancing, games and singing—just like in the old days when Mr. Stofor and his friends gathered on the beach around the bonfire and danced to a Wurlitzer."

Nanaimo, Port Alberni Tangle on Ice Rink

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo and Nanaimo council members were friendly enemies of their Port Alberni opposite numbers Sunday at the Nanaimo Curling Club.

Two Nanaimo rinks played two rinks from Port Alberni. City treasurer Bob Bowditch and RCMP detachment chief Staff-Sgt. Frank Slater were drafted to fill vacancies on the two teams.

The results were one game each for the Port and Nanaimo.

Plans are being made for a return match of some sort, but not necessarily curling.

Clerics Clarify Stand On Sex Education

Victoria clergymen are not opposed to sex education in schools, but they would prefer to see a program which deals with love rather than fear, and which is taught by qualified teachers.

Such a program should also have the support of parents.

FOUR CLERICS

Recently four clergymen, Catholic: C. F. Waite, RCN Chaplain; C. Hilary Butler, Anglican; and G. Howard Turpin, United Church, were asked for opinions on a program suggested for experimental purposes in a Victoria school.

After study, the four suggested that it should be deferred for a time and offered their suggestions for a program of sex education.

Trustees noted on the deferment suggestion.

Yesterday, the clergymen issued a statement on their opinions. They agreed that more and better sex education is urgently necessary, but they had reservations.

They felt that the proposed course did not place the facts of sex in an ethical context and that it concentrated on fear rather than any ideal of love for acceptable conduct.

CLOSE LIAISON

Sex education in the home is preferred by the ministers who would like to see the closest possible liaison between home and school.

The clergy suggests that a joint commission of school board, clergy and other agencies serving youth might be set up to study the whole question of family life and teenage mores in Victoria, and satisfactory instruction set up, based on the commission's findings.

Support of parents should be assured, the ministers feel, and qualified teachers should be obtained and the excellence of the material unquestioned.

Because of the delicate nature of sex education, and the fact that it closely touches spiritual life, the clergy feels that the churches and other agencies should be asked to co-operate.

Improving

Colin Courtney, 1472 Begbie, is reported improving in Royal Jubilee Hospital after being knocked down by a car Friday. He was originally reported in fairly good condition.

with the board in providing material and drawing up a scheme which would give due weight to these considerations.

These views were not presented at the school board meeting when officials recommended the deferment but all trustees except chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson and Edward Wood, voted in favor.

MOTHER OF FIVE

Since then Mr. Wood has campaigned for an immediate start for the program and Mrs. Dyllis Poole, a mother of five children, is also seeking public support for a petition.

As a result of the public support, Mrs. Thompson has indicated that she would be willing to ask the board to reconsider its decision.

Tourist Dollar

Vikings Will Vie With Sternwheeler

If present plans bear fruit, Viking longboats will be vying with sternwheeler sightseeing craft for the tourist dollar in the Inner Harbor.

City council was reminded yesterday by promoters of the Sherwood Forest playland scheme that it is seeking authority to use the Inner Harbor floats for its Viking ships.

Milton Tiedale, planning director for the project, said initially two Viking ships will be built. The department of transport at Ottawa has approved the plans, he said.

"The ships will run on a half-hour shuttle (from the Inner Harbor) to our landing dock in Selkirk Water at Sherwood Forest," said Mr. Tiedale.

OFF-SEASON

The promoters also intend to operate the Viking ships as "a convention service attraction" during the off-season, with runs up the Gorge to Portage Inlet and back.

Mr. Tiedale said construction of the $2,000,000 playland project is scheduled to begin Aug. 1 and it is expected to open in May, 1965.

LOCAL COMPANY

The sternwheeler sightseeing craft, to be operated by another newly-formed local company, Yukon Queen Tours Ltd., are scheduled to be in operation this summer.

Two craft, each 36 feet in length, with a paddle wheel at the stern bringing the over-all length to some 46 feet, are now being constructed in McKay, Cormack shipyard. Each will carry 25 passengers on harbor tours.

Search Continues

Five Islanders Perish In Weekend Tragedies

Hope was virtually abandoned yesterday for three young Vancouver Islanders missing on a west coast boat trip during a weekend that saw two other Islanders lose their lives.

Known dead are Derek Gordon, 12, of Woss Lake on the northern end of the island, whose body was found Sunday at the foot of a 60-foot bluff; and Thomas Brown, 19, of Cedar, drowned Saturday off Valdes Island.

MISSING MEN

The missing men are Alfred Andrew, Friendly Cove Reservation; Jackie Morris, Hot Springs Cove, and John Dean of Nuchatlitz on the west coast. All are in their early 20s.

The three had left Tahsis Saturday afternoon on a 20-mile trip to Friendly Cove in a 15-foot outboard boat.

NEW SHOES

A search was organized when they failed to arrive, and their boat was found floating stern-under. In it were one new pair of shoes, a single shoe with the laces still tied, two jackets and two hard hats.

During Sunday's search, shared by an Albatross aircraft from Air-Sea Rescue, a third jacket was found on the beach at Boston Point. Monday, when boats from surrounding points joined the search, the gas tank from the boat was found.

TAHSIS RCMP

RCMP from Tahsis, taking part in the search which will continue today, are not optimistic. "The water is pretty cold," they said last night. "Very few bodies are ever recovered in this area."

Body of Tom Brown was found about noon Saturday by the RCMP patrol boat Sydney.

MILE AWAY

The young man was helping with the construction of a house on Pylades Island and had gone alone by boat to Blackberry Point on Valdes Island only about a mile away, on the previous day.

The 16-foot-boat, with an outboard motor, in which he had made the journey was discovered not far from the probable scene of the accident with the motor still in gear.

FELL OVERBOARD

Brown was wearing a life preserver when found. An autopsy showed that death was due to drowning, and there was no suspicion of sudden illness or foul play, Coroner Russell Inkster held an inquiry. It is assumed that somehow Brown fell overboard and was unable to reach the boat.

The dead youth's parents live in Burnaby.

HIKING TRIP

Alert Bay RCMP said the Gordon boy had gone missing on a weekend hiking trip with two companions. His home is about 40 miles north of Alert Bay.

Friendly Cove Indians Fight It Out

TAHSIS — A fight at Friendly Cove Reservation in the early hours of Sunday sent one Indian to hospital with a fractured skull and a second into court charged with assault causing bodily harm.

In satisfactory condition in Esplanade General Hospital is Mark Jack, aged about 18.

Joseph George August, 47, was arrested by RCMP and appeared Monday night before Magistrate H. K. Tucker here, where the charge was read. August was remanded without plea to March 4.

Police said they had no knowledge of the reason for the fight at the reservation, where both men lived. The injuries, they said, were caused by an axe.

Two Admit Theft Of Liquor

ZEBALLOS — Two men pleaded guilty in magistrate's court here Monday to breaking, entering and theft at the Zeballos liquor store last Jan. 29. Stolen at the time were 24 bottles of liquor.

RCMP at Tahsis last week arrested Claude William Meeker, 28, of Zeballos, and Mark Lloyd Witton, 23, of Tahsis. The two appeared Monday before Magistrate W. H. Stromquist, pleaded guilty, and were remanded to March 4 for sentence.

Police said 13 bottles of liquor were recovered. They said entry to the liquor store was gained by tearing a wire screen from a front window and breaking the glass in the early hours of Jan. 29.

St. David's Day Daffs To Be Sent to Calgary

Calgary Welshmen are going to realize Saturday that the flowers bloom first in Victoria.

To help Calgary's St. David Society mark the day of Wales' patron saint, St. David, and to publicize Victoria's coming first annual Spring Flower Festival, the tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce plans to fly 40 to 50 dozen daffodils to Calgary for the Society's St. David's Day dinner.

NATIONAL FLOWER

Daffodils are the second national flower of the Welsh—the first is the leek.

The flowers will be flown to Calgary, free, by Trans-Canada Air Lines. They will be accompanied by a giant greeting card in both Welsh Gaelic and English.

Several members of Victoria hot-rod clubs plan to attend a meet in Portland March 2 to 7, and the flower festival committee of the chamber last night agreed to supply the hot-rodgers with 2,000 blossoms. The hot-rodgers also plan to visit Portland.

Members of the Victoria Flying Club have tentative plans to fly to other points March 15, and have expressed willingness to hand out some daffodils.

Both the flying club and the hot-rod clubs plan events in connection with the festival in Victoria—the car clubs a road-o March 22 and the flying club a fly-in March 28.

Tower Top Topic in Oak Bay

Oak Bay councillors met informally—and secretly—last night to discuss what action if any the municipality would take regarding proposed construction of radio transmitters on Trial Island.

Meanwhile, a petition containing 200 names was sent to the Board of Broadcast Governors in Ottawa, protesting the CFAX proposal.

The petition was sponsored by waterfront residents, who say their view of the offshore area will be spoiled if the towers are built.

One of the petition sponsors,

Mrs. E. G. Hart, 287 King George Terrace, says her neighbors were "not entirely selfish," as the view from her area was popular with tourists as well as residents.

"We don't know what good the petition will do," she said last night, "but we felt we had to protest."

She said many residents were fearful the tower construction would be "the thin edge of the wedge," allowing for future commercial development in the area.

"We would like to see this part of the area kept clean," she said last night.

CFAX executives maintain the towers will not spoil the view from Oak Bay, as the island is too far out for them to be seen from shore.

Reeve Cox said last week he did not think his council had any specific jurisdiction in the matter, but there might be some informal discussion among councillors.

BEEN APPROACHED

Other councillors have said they have been approached by residents opposing the move.

regular meetings of the groups last night.

Before the in-camera discussion, he did not comment on the nature of the talks, but said a statement might be forthcoming later this week.

At the earlier works meeting, Coun. William Wade described the tower controversy as "a mess," and while he thought council had no official stake in the matter, it was expected to "go to bed" for the residents.

Coun. Fred Robinson said he could not see how the proposed towers would spoil the panoramic view from Oak Bay.

Priests Play Dead In Midst of Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Two Quebec priests wounded by terrorists using bows and arrows said Monday they played dead for more than two hours with rebels swarming all around them during an attack on their Kwilu Province mission Saturday.

The two priests were Rev. Raymond Bussiere, 23, of Drummondville, and Rev. Guy Jean Bruneau, 41, of Magog. Their mission was overrun by hordes who killed two Belgians.

BLEEDING HEAVILY
"We were both bleeding heavily and were very weak," Father Bussiere said. "There we lay on the floor for more than two hours, while the rebels were swarming around us."

"One of the Belgian Jesuit brothers had escaped to the rectory, too, and was hiding behind our cinema screen. They never found him. We did not know how long we had to stay there and we did not dare bandage our wounds, for rebels were all around."

HEARD CONFESSION
"The Jesuit father there heard our whispered confession and gave us absolution while the terrorists were looting and screaming around us."

Father Bussiere suffered a deep arrow wound in his left arm. Father Bruneau was wounded in an arm and hand.

They and 15 other Canadian and Belgian priests and teachers were flown out of the terror-stricken province Sunday after Canadian Brig. Jacques Alfred Dextraze of Montreal, buzzed the mission with his helicopter and scared away about 60 rebels.

TEACHER KILLED

Father Bussiere said he tried to flee when a group of rebels forced several of the missionaries to kneel in their station building. One of the rebels shot and killed Belgian teacher Robert Marechal, 24.

"They did not give any warning, just killed him like that," he said. Another witness said the rebels used a "pou pou," a home-made muzzle-loading rifle stuffed with lead and nails.

HEATHMAN MISSING, POLICE SPREAD NET

By TERRY HAMMOND

Confessed child-slayer Charles Heathman has broken parole and vanished.

Provincial officials confirmed his disappearance yesterday and said a continent-wide police alert has been sounded.

Heathman, twice sentenced to the gallows for the 1962 sex-slaying of Vernon newsboy Donald Otley and later freed by the B.C. Court of Appeal, dropped out of sight early last Wednesday.

He had been staying with a sponsor to which he had been paroled from Essondale Mental Hospital.

Authorities said yesterday the sponsor immediately notified them and that a "search and locate" order went out to RCMP.

U.S. POLICE NOTIFIED

U.S. police, probably the FBI, were brought in on the theory he might be headed for the border.

An official yesterday thought he might have headed for Nevada, where he had a lengthy criminal record before coming to B.C.

LESS THAN A MONTH

His disappearance from the Lower Mainland home of his sponsor came less than a month after he was paroled.

Authorities said yesterday that breaking a Mental Hospital Act parole is not a crime.

Were police under orders to arrest him if they discovered his whereabouts?

BULLETIN

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — An Eastern Airlines DC-8 jetliner with 42 persons aboard crashed early today in a body of water north of New Orleans airport.

The plane took off at 4 a.m. (EST) and disappeared into the lake seven minutes later. The craft carried 35 passengers and 7 crew members.

Develop or Get Out Edict Urged for Firm

By TERRY HAMMOND

The B.C. government was told yesterday it should deliver an ultimatum to the Tahsis Company — develop its Vancouver Island tree farm licence properly or lose it.

John Squire (NDP — Alberni) told the legislature that the firm, a subsidiary of the East Asiatic Company, is not living up to its development commitments, that it is wasteful, that it is running "company towns" and thwarting community development.

He said the company was granted a tree farm licence covering part of Central Vancouver Island and the West Coast on the basis of an announcement that it would build a pulp mill somewhere between Metchosin and Zeballos.

In the past seven or eight years the company had made further pulp mill announcements, but nothing ever came of them.

"They used this in seeking public support," Mr. Squire said. "People touring the company's operations had been 'appalled at what was left on the forest floor.'"

The proposed pulp mill and other company installations were to have benefitted the area of the tree farm licence both industrially and socially, the Alberni member said.

SOCIAL BENEFITS

But not all of the industrial benefits and none of the social benefits had materialized.

"Only the sawmill has improved and the logging extended," said Mr. Squire.

"Full harvest is not being made in the woods operations." He claimed 2,500 people in the tree farm licence area were without access to public highways and that the 1,500 residents of the community of Tahsis couldn't even buy land or their own homes.

"Not one person owns anything but the furniture in their own homes—it's a darn poor deal."

Quebec Threat

'Queen Faces Danger'

TORONTO (CP) — Queen Elizabeth's life will be endangered if she visits Quebec this fall as planned, separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput said here Monday night.

The former leader of the Quebec Republican Party told 200 members of the Young Men's Canadian Club that violence was a probability.

"Some of my own people are ready to let her know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

He said French Canada would regard the visit as a provocation.

Hand for Sailor

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Boston surgeons said last night a 28-year-old Ecuadorian sailor who was given the forearm and hand of a dead man after his own hand was blown off by a grenade is doing "excellently."

Dr. Richard Wilson and Dr. Robert Goldwyn, reporting on the sailor's condition 10 days after the historic operation in Guayaquil, Ecuador, said his new hand is "completely viable."

Dr. Wilson and Dr. Goldwyn, both associate surgeons at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, flew to Guayaquil last week to advise on post-operative care for the patient. They returned to Boston Sunday.

The transplant of a human limb, called a homograph, was believed to be the first in medical history. The nine-hour operation was performed by Dr. Roberto Gilbert, a noted bone specialist.

The sailor was Julio Luna of the Ecuadorian navy. His hand and wrist were amputated shortly after the 11 a.m. accident.

At 4 p.m. Gilbert found a donor, a 38-year-old civilian who had died of a massive intestinal hemorrhage at another hospital.

The dead man's hand and forearm were amputated, placed on ice and rushed across the city. At 9 p.m. Dr. Gilbert and a team of specialists began the operation, which lasted until 6 a.m. the next day.

Rescue Tries Heroic

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — U.S. Coast Guardsmen jumped time and again into the stormy Atlantic to rescue crewmen of a sinking British freighter, it was disclosed yesterday with the arrival of 11 survivors of the vessel.

Mr. K Sees End to War

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has declared that "for the first time in history mankind is in a position to prevent war altogether," usually reliable sources reported here Monday.

Cadets' Boltless Rifles Seized at Bayonet-Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Exclusive Ashbury College for boys in suburban Rockcliffe was turning Monday after a weekend visit from the army to collect cadet corps rifles.

With fixed bayonets, the army unit swooped down on Ashbury at 12:30 a.m. Saturday to carry out Defence Minister Hellyer's order removing small arms from militia establishments in "sensitive areas" because of raids on three Quebec armories.

The school said that among weapons removed were 130 boltless First World War rifles which hadn't been fired since 1918.

Quivering with indignation, Commodore W. G. Ross, chairman of the board of governors of Ashbury, said in an interview:

"It's a pretty ridiculous piece of work to come into a private school in the middle of the night and disturb the school and its boarders."

"It seems totally unnecessary for these soldiers to march through Ashbury with fixed bayonets and loaded rifles. We'll take this matter up with the army and the minister of national defence."

"How are we expected to train a cadet corps without any equipment?"

Mayor Will Ignore What People Think

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Mayor Arthur Holland said Monday he has bought a house in a rundown Negro neighborhood and will move in Friday. He said the only thing that worries him is that people will think he is a crackpot.

"You know the reaction of some people," he explained. "The average person thinks 'he's nuts' or that 'he likes the Negro or Puerto Rican better than us.'"

"Or they say 'he will move in for awhile, just long enough to keep his promise, and then he will move out again' or 'He's going to do it for speculation and if it catches on he will make a lot of money out of it.'"

But Holland, the first mayor under this state capital city's mayor-city council form of government, said the reason he and his pretty wife purchased their new home was because they wanted something that would lend itself to early American remodeling.

Then, too, he said, he believes that it may set an example for other people and attract whites back to the neighborhood.

No Firing Of Seamen

MONTREAL (UPI) — Canada's board of maritime trustees Monday issued an order making it unlawful for anyone but themselves to fire any of the 14,000 seamen under their jurisdiction. Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Labor Minister McEachern warned Great Lakes shipowners to cooperate with the trustees.

Woman Chosen Third Juror

DALLAS (AP) — Lawyers approved a working mother of six children Monday as the third juror in the Jack Ruby murder trial. The Texas Supreme Court, meanwhile in effect upheld the trial court's ruling that persons who saw the slaying on television remain eligible as jurors.

The defence contends that such television viewers are witnesses and thus are ineligible to serve on Ruby's jury.

The nine-member supreme court refused to hear a defence petition asking it to order District Judge Joe B. Brown to disqualify as jurors persons who saw the slaying on TV.

APPEALED TO COURT

The defence flew a lawyer to Austin Monday to make the plea before the state supreme court.

The third juror chosen and the first woman was Mrs. Mildred McCollum, 40, a secretary and wife of a machinist. She could have claimed exemption from jury duty because of her children.

However, she did not claim

Ahousat:

One House in 30 Years

Alberni MLA John Squire told the legislature yesterday the most appalling living conditions he has ever seen exist at the Indian village of Ahousat off Vancouver Island's west coast. He demanded the government institute a pilot program for the Indians there similar to steps taken in recent years in Manitoba.

At the Ahousat village only six individuals are gainfully employed out of a population of 480 people, he charged.

There is no adequate means of communication with Vancouver Island points and, in spite of a rapidly growing population, there has only been one new home built there in the past 36 years. Conditions in the homes are so bad that children attending school aren't allowed to take books home or study for fear they will be destroyed.

The island on which the village is located is dominated by a tree farm licence but there is no cutting program to provide employment.

Mr. Squire charged B.C. "is 10 miles and 100 years" behind the rest of Canada in caring for its Indian population.

"When it comes to biculturalism..."
